NNRC Plans
Critical POW
Release Talks13 Days Are Left
Before Freedom Of Anti-Reds Is Due

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, under fire from within and without, planned a critical meeting today or tomorrow over the boiling question of what to do with 22,000 prisoners in an anti-Red camp.

There are only 13 days left under the armistice terms before the prisoners are due to be released from compounds in the neutral zone.

Before then, the commission still hoped to come to some agreement with the Communists and the United Nations Command for handling the prisoners after Jan. 22.

Only Two Courses
Actually, there seemed to be only two courses:

1. Do nothing, concede the U. N. Command position and allow the prisoners to leave by themselves, beginning at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 23.
2. Try some other course and risk a wild prison break by nearly two divisions of exasperated, prison-weary combat veterans.

The NNRC called the new meeting after receiving replies from the U. N. and Communist commands both to a commission majority report and to a secret memorandum.

Yesterday the Swedish and Swiss members of the NNRC criticized the memorandum which said the commission felt the explanations should be resumed. They protested that the wording made it sound as if all commission members were in agreement.

Gen. John E. Hull, U. N. Far East commander, made public yesterday his reply to the memorandum. It said a reopening of explanations could not be considered by his command and the responsibility of Indian troops for holding the prisoners definitely ended at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 23.

The Red reply backed up the majority request for resuming the explanations but criticized the Indians for not using force against prisoners who refused to come out for interviews.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U. S. 8th Army commander, returned to Seoul from conferences with Hull in Tokyo. Taylor called a press conference for 4 p.m. (2 a.m. Saturday, EST). He will tell newsmen then of the arrangements for processing the 22,000 prisoners southward.

Princess Margaret
Has House Guest

SANDRINGHAM, England, Jan. 8 (AP)—Lord Plunket, a tall and handsome captain in the Irish guards, came here today as the house guest of Princess Margaret and her mother at the Royal Lodge.

The visit of the fair-haired 30-year-old peer led to lifted eyebrows in London's Mayfair set—but Margaret, 23, has kept them fussy before.

New Wave Of Layoffs Hits
Large American Industries

A new wave of layoffs hit important segments of America's heavy industry this week. Affected were employees of auto makers, steel companies, railroad and electrical manufacturers.

Layoffs have mounted in recent weeks. Railroads have laid off around 18,000. The textile, farm equipment and rubber industries also have been affected.

In announcements this week most company spokesmen blamed "adjusted production schedules" or "a lack of immediate business." North American Aviation Inc., disclosing plans to lay off 1,100 at Columbus, Ohio, attributed the action to the government's scheduled "stretchout" in defense contracts.

The biggest layoffs this week were in Michigan, where the number of jobless rose to 142,000. At the Plymouth Division of Chrysler Corp. and the Automotive Body (Briggs) Division, 7,650 workers were taken off the payrolls Friday. Hudson Motor Co. sent 4,500

New Series Of Atom
Tests Are Planned

Hydrogen Weapon May Be Used

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The United States disclosed tonight it will make a super-secret series of atomic tests in the Pacific soon, and there was immediate speculation that a mighty hydrogen weapon would be exploded.

Signaling that the time has arrived for another advance in the science of atomic warfare, the Atomic Energy Commission said men and materials would start moving to the proving grounds in the Marshall Islands this month.

The carefully-worded AEC announcement did not say that preparations are under way for the greatest man-made blast in history. But it did state that "weapons tests of all categories" would be made.

No Observers Present
This lent strength to unofficial reports that American scientists are ready to unleash a blast of awful proportions. It has been frequently reported, and never denied, that a hydrogen test device was exploded at Eniwetok in 1952.

There will be no observers of the new tests other than the American officials concerned, the AEC said. This was another indication that perhaps important new developments in the field of atomic warfare will be tried out.

The secrecy surrounding the upcoming tests indicated that the AEC is not inclined yet to put on an H-bomb show for the rest of the world. It was reported as long ago as last July that the AEC had entered into large-scale production of material for hydrogen bombs. One of the shots in last fall's series of tests in the Pacific was of a hydrogen device.

If a new one is set off, experts outside the government figured it might exceed the total power of all bombs dropped by the huge American air forces during World War II.

Moving To Pacific
The text of AEC's terse announcement:

"During this month men and materials will begin moving to the Pacific proving grounds of the Atomic Energy Commission to carry out a further phase of a continuing series of weapons tests of all categories."

"These tests are part of the Atomic Energy Commission's research program for the improvement of weapons, pursuant to its responsibility under the Atomic Energy Act."

"The tests will be conducted by Joint Task Force 7, commanded by Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson, U. S. Army. There will be no observers other than U. S. officials concerned."

Military Spending
Cut Said Possible

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson said today it may be possible to cut a billion dollars from contemplated military spending in the current fiscal year.

He told a news conference he hoped spending in the 12 months ending June 30 would be less than 42 billion dollars. Estimates at the start of the year placed military spending at more than 43 billion dollars.

The secretary said production of tactical vehicles, such as jeeps and trucks, was already tapering off and would be cut back further in the near future. He gave no specific figures.

SANTA MONICA, Calif., Jan. 8 (AP)—Film star Jane Wyman today sued for a divorce from her third husband, Frederick M. Karger, composer and musical director.

Unfair Labor
Charges Filed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The independent International Longshoremen's Assn. today filed unfair labor practice charges against Gov. Thomas E. Dewey of New York and AFL President George Meany.

The charges were filed against Dewey, Meany, the AFL and the AFL's own International Longshoremen's Assn. The ILA-AFL is engaged in a bitter showdown fight with the independent ILA for labor union control of work on the New York-New Jersey waterfront.

Among railroads, the Reading Co. said it was laying off 1,200 at its main car shops in Reading, Pa., bringing total layoffs on the road since the end of December to 2,400. Jersey Central Railroad disclosed it had laid off 400 on Dec. 24 due to a seasonal decline in business.

In Washington, government officials predicted that unemployment would grow to more than two million this month.

Atom Talks Begin Monday

U. S., Russia
To Discuss Ike
Plan For Peace

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The United States and Russia will open preliminary atomic talks here Monday.

At that time Secretary of State Dulles and Ambassador Georgi N. Zarubin will set down to discuss ways and means of holding discussions on President Eisenhower's atom-for-peace plan.

U. S. officials hope the talks will show the degree of seriousness with which the Russians will negotiate on the Eisenhower plan and on their own demand for a ban on the use of atomic weapons.

Diplomatic authorities are concerned that these talks and subsequent more formal negotiations should be handled in such a way as to (1) produce the most favorable conditions for some sort of atomic agreement with Russia and (2) win the understanding and support of America's allies.

Privately U. S. diplomats think the Soviet government may try to use the atomic issue to make trouble between the United States and Britain or France or Canada. The United States has special relations with these countries as with some others in this field. It does not want to appear to be getting chummy with Russia at their expense. On the other hand it does not want the next round of atomic talks to be held in such a manner as to foreclose whatever chance of progress there may be.

To date the United States has kept the British informed of its contacts with the Russians on the President's plan. Both American and British diplomats said, however, there have not yet been any special talks of the two Western governments beyond those which Eisenhower and Prime Minister Churchill held at Bermuda.

Will Meet On Monday
The latest development came today with the State Department announcement that Dulles and Zarubin would meet Monday. Events leading up to this were:

Eisenhower's proposal to the United Nations Dec. 8 for an international pool of atomic material for peaceful purposes; a Soviet note Dec. 21 agreeing to discuss the proposition; a proposal by Ambassador Charles Bohlen to Soviet Foreign Minister Molotov on Dec. 31 for private talks about how to set up negotiations; a reply by Molotov Jan. 6 agreeing to preliminary talks between Dulles and Zarubin.

New Housing
Office Planned

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The Public Housing Administration announced today it will open Jan. 18 a new field office in Washington to serve Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and the District of Columbia.

Local housing agencies in the District, Maryland and Delaware now deal with the PHA field office in New York, while those in Virginia and West Virginia were served by the Atlanta, Ga., office.

Commissioner Charles E. Slusser said the new field office, PHA's seventh, will be staffed by personnel drawn from existing field offices and the central office in Washington. No new employees will be added to the federal payroll, Slusser stated.

Slusser appointed Charles E. Levy to head the new field office here. Levy formerly was director of growing, canning and packing fruits and vegetables.

POWs Will Be Released Jan. 23 Despite All Objections

By WILLIAM C. BARNARD
PANMUNJOM, Saturday, Jan. 9 (AP)—It seemed a cinch today that 22,000 Chinese and North Korean prisoners in the anti-Red compounds will be released after midnight Jan. 22.

Top authoritative sources in Korea say it is inevitable that the prisoners will stream south through the early morning darkness of Jan. 23.

These sources smile over the letter writing, note passing and arguments of the Communists, the Allies and the Indians. The Indians guard the prisoners.

"All this stuff now going on at Panmunjom," one said, "is just for show. The issues have been settled a long, long time."

The Allies demand release of the prisoners at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 23. The Reds insist they be held while "come home" interviews are resumed and until a Korean peace

Potter Blisters
Delay Of Release
Of Atrocity Film

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Sen. Potter (R-Mich.) today blistered the State and Defense Departments for postponing release of an Army film showing Communist atrocities in Korea.

"It's silly, utterly ridiculous," said Potter, who lost both legs in World War II combat.

"I'm getting damn tired of our policies being based upon what the Communists might think about it," Potter said the Army atrocity film had been carefully prepared for release in New York this week-end for television use.

Last month Potter conducted a series of public hearings here on atrocities committed against U. S. servicemen in Korea. Twenty-three survivors or eyewitnesses testified.

He will release a report on these hearings for Sunday publication and the Army film apparently was timed to coincide.

Potter said the film apparently was being withdrawn because of the upcoming Big Four meeting of foreign ministers in Berlin Jan. 25 and the scheduled release in Korea Jan. 23 of prisoners who don't want to be repatriated.

Detailed reasons for postponing the film were not given although the Defense and State Departments said they "mutually decided" to delay it.

U. S. Soldier Ban
Extended At Trier

TRIER, Germany, Jan. 8 (AP)—French authorities announced tonight their order banning off-duty American soldiers from this city in the French zone of Germany has been extended indefinitely.

U. S. officials had reported earlier today that the ban, imposed Monday after the fatal beating here of a French soldier, Pvt. Louis Piazza, 21, had expired last midnight.

As they cross the Imjin River's Freedom Gate bridge to allied territory north of Munsan, searchlights will blaze the way. Loudspeakers will repeat in Korean and Chinese:

"There are hostiles among you. Weed them out. Keep moving."

North of Munsan, Chinese and Koreans will go into dozens of temporary holding compounds. From there, they will move south in trucks and trains. The north Koreans will be accommodated in South Korea. The Chinese will be taken to Inchon where U. S. ships will be waiting to transport to Formosa those who want to go there.

In Peiping, Red China's radio said anew today "it is impossible" under the armistice terms for this to be done legally. But the only retaliation it mentioned in case it did was the condemnation of "world public opinion."

Small Town Has
No Auto Deaths
In Eight Years

MOORESVILLE, N. C., Jan. 8 (AP)—While other cities are desperately trying to reduce traffic deaths, this mill town of 7,218 residents is setting new records—by doing nothing.

Mooreville has gone 3,342 days without a traffic death. The last one was recorded Feb. 22, 1945.

The National Safety Council, noting the deathless record, this week presented town officials with a safety award, the eighth consecutive one.

The record has been achieved without safety drives and without radical changes in the town's traffic program.

This Rabbit
Climbs Trees

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 8 (AP)—Well, doc, there was this rabbit sitting in a tree.

At least that's the tale told by two city detectives and a newspaper photographer. The detectives, who begged to remain incognito, walked into the Syracuse Herald-Journal office looking for a photographer.

Asked why, they replied: "We can't tell you you wouldn't believe it. We've got to have a photographer to prove it."

Photographer Frank Monell went on safari with the detectives to a residential street. You could have knocked him over with a carrot top. Monell reported, for there was a rabbit perched in a tree, about 10 feet off the ground.

But the trio still can't prove it. Quicker than you could say "Harvey," Monell said, the bunny leaped from the tree and bounded away unphotographed.

Dulles To Speak

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will discuss "the evolution of foreign policy" in a nationally televised address next Tuesday night in New York City.

Truman Okayed
"Red Herring"
Quotation's Use

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Former President Truman said today it was a reporter at a news conference who referred to congressional spy hunts in 1948 as a "red herring." Truman said he himself did not use the phrase.

An unofficial transcript of the Aug. 5, 1948 news conference showed that the reporter first used the words in a question, but that Truman later said "Yes, you can quote me . . . they are using this as a red herring to keep from doing what they ought to do."

Truman's version was given in an interview recorded for television today. The interview was between the ex-President and Drew Pearson, columnist - commentator whom Truman once called an "S.O.B."

"The facts in the case are," Truman said, that a reporter "asked me if the action of the Un-American Activities Committee was not in the form of a red herring to cover up what the Republican administration in the 80th Congress had not done, and I said it might be."

"And that's where it started. . . The phrase was thrown back at him frequently after the indictment and conviction of Alger Hiss, former State Department official, on charges of perjury in denying that he had furnished information to a Soviet spy courier."

"The President has also renewed his request for an increase in the national debt limit, which is now fixed at 275 billion dollars. He hasn't said how much higher he wants to push the ceiling, but 15 billion was the figure proposed when the request was first made to Congress last summer."

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader in the Senate, said today the Democrats would exercise a "veto" power on some parts of the Eisenhower legislative program, and Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) announced he would try to stamp the first veto on the request for a higher debt ceiling.

Baltimore Mayor's
Son To Be Arraigned

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8 (AP)—The perjury arraignment of Franklin Roosevelt D'Alesandro, 20-year-old son of Mayor Thomas D'Alesandro, today was set for Jan. 18.

The assignment was made by State's Attorney Anselm Sodaro. Young D'Alesandro is accused of lying last November at his trial on a charge of statutory rape. A jury found him innocent of the morals charge.

Gangland Blamed In Reuther Shooting Police Head Says

DETROIT, Jan. 8 (AP)—A high-ranking police official said today that the shotgun blast which seriously wounded Walter Reuther in 1948 has been traced to gangster elements which tried to seize control of the big CIO United Auto Workers union which Reuther heads.

Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien, told in an interview today some of the details which led to the naming of four men Wednesday as conspirators in the assassination attempt.

O'Brien said the gangsters' struggle to control the gigantic auto union's affairs was a more important factor in the assassination than their desire to keep a multi-million dollar gambling ring operating in auto plants at the time of the shooting.

The real objective, O'Brien said, was to get the power to force management to agree to deals that would be far more profitable and respectable than gambling operations.

Major Parts
Of Program
Are OpposedPublic Reaction Said
Favoring Legislation,
Capitol Hill Is Cool

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Members of Congress took a second look at President Eisenhower's legislative program today and let it be known that he will have to fight to get major parts of it through the House and Senate.

Public reaction to yesterday's State of the Union message, as measured by telegrams received at the White House, is "overwhelmingly in favor" of the Eisenhower program, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty reported.

Storm Signals Raised
He said that up to 4 p.m. today 300 telegrams had been received praising the President's message and 4 criticizing it.

But storm signals were hoisted on Capitol Hill, where it was evident the President will face stiff opposition when he tries to raise the national debt limit, hold taxes generally at present levels, and put farm price supports on a more flexible basis.

Even Eisenhower's estimate of a five billion dollar cut in expenditures during the next fiscal year was received coolly in some congressional circles.

Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the House Appropriations Committee said he expected the administration to submit a "tight" budget, but he added:

"I never saw a budget that couldn't be cut. That applies to all of them, Republican and Democratic."

There was early support, however, for the President's proposal to give the vote to 18 year olds, young citizens who, as Eisenhower put it, "have, in time of peril, been summoned to fight for America."

Two resolutions have already been introduced in the House, and one in the Senate, for a constitutional amendment extending the right of suffrage to citizens when they reach the age of 18.

There were signs that the Eisenhower tax program, as outlined in his State of the Union message yesterday, fell far short of what many members of Congress want in the way of tax reductions.

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) conceded that a whopping fight is in prospect over taxes. "I rather expect that is where we will have our biggest difficulty," he told reporters.

Republican and Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee, where all tax measures must originate, were almost unanimous in calling for more tax reductions than the President proposed.

Ways and Means Chairman Daniel Reed (R-NY) served notice that he will oppose extending the present top corporation income tax rate of 52 per cent beyond next April, 1 when it is scheduled to drop to 47 per cent. Eisenhower has asked for an extension.

The President has also renewed his request for an increase in the national debt limit, which is now fixed at 275 billion dollars. He hasn't said how much higher he wants to push the ceiling, but 15 billion was the figure proposed when the request was first made to Congress last summer.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader in the Senate, said today the Democrats would exercise a "veto" power on some parts of the Eisenhower legislative program, and Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) announced he would try to stamp the first veto on the request for a higher debt ceiling.

Ike Faces Fight In Congress

NNRC Plans Critical POW Release Talks

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 9 (AP)—The Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, under fire from without and within, planned a critical meeting today or tomorrow over the boiling question of what to do with 22,000 prisoners in an anti-Red camp.

There are only 13 days left under the armistice terms before the prisoners are due to be released from compounds in the neutral zone.

Before then, the commission still hoped to come to some agreement with the Communists and the United Nations Command for handling the prisoners after Jan. 22.

Only Two Courses

Actually, there seemed to be only two courses:

2. Try some other course and risk a wild prison break by nearly two divisions of exasperated, prison-weary combat veterans.

The NNRC called the new meeting after receiving replies from the U. N. and Communist commands both to a commission majority report and to a secret memorandum.

Yesterday the Swedish and Swiss members of the NNRC criticized the memorandum which said the commission felt the explanations should be resumed. They protested that the wording made it sound as if all commission members were in agreement.

Gen. John E. Hull, U. S. Far East commander, made public yesterday his reply to the memorandum. It said a reopening of explanations could not be considered by his command and the responsibility of Indian troops for holding the prisoners definitely ended at 12:01 a.m. Jan. 23.

Backs Up Request

The Red reply backed up the majority request for resuming the explanations but criticized the Indians for not using force against prisoners who refused to come out for interviews.

Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, U. S. 8th Army commander, returned to Seoul from conferences with Hull in Tokyo. Taylor called a press conference at 4 p.m. (2 a.m. Saturday, EST). He will tell newsmen then of the arrangements for processing the 22,000 prisoners southward.

New Series Of Atom Tests Are Planned

Hydrogen Weapon May Be Used

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—The United States disclosed tonight it will make a super-secret series of atomic tests in the Pacific soon, and there was immediate speculation that a mighty hydrogen weapon would be exploded.

Signaling that the time has arrived for another advance in the science of atomic warfare, the Atomic Energy Commission said men and materials would start moving to the proving grounds in the Marshall Islands this month.

The carefully-worded AEC announcement did not say that preparations are under way for the greatest man-made blast in history. But it did state that "weapons tests of all categories" would be made.

"These tests are part of the Atomic Energy Commission's research program for the improvement of weapons, pursuant to its responsibility under the Atomic Energy Act."

The tests will be conducted by Joint Task Force 7, commanded by Maj. Gen. Percy W. Clarkson, U. S. Army. There will be no observers other than U. S. officials concerned.

"It's silly, utterly ridiculous," said Potter, who lost both legs in World War I combat.

"I'm getting damn tired of our policies being based upon what the Communists might think about it," Potter said the Army atrocity film had been carefully prepared for release in New York this week-end for television use.

Last month Potter conducted a series of public hearings here on atrocities committed against U. S. servicemen in Korea. Twenty-three survivors or eyewitnesses testified.

He will release a report on these hearings for Sunday publication and the Army film apparently was timed to coincide.

Potter said the film apparently was being withdrawn because of the upcoming Big Four meeting of foreign ministers in Berlin Jan. 25 and the scheduled release in Korea Jan. 23 of prisoners who don't want to be repatriated.

Detailed reasons for postponing the film were not given although the Defense and State Departments said they "mutually decided" to delay it.

U. S. Soldier Ban Extended At Trier

TRIER, Germany, Jan. 8 (AP)—French authorities announced tonight their order banning off-duty American soldiers from this city in the French zone of Germany has been extended indefinitely.

U. S. officials had reported earlier today that the ban, imposed Monday after the fatal beating here of a French soldier, Pvt. Louis Piazza, 21, had expired last midnight.

Small Town Has No Auto Deaths In Eight Years

MOORESVILLE, N. C., Jan. 8 (AP)—While other cities are desperately trying to reduce traffic deaths, this mill town of 7,218 residents is setting new records—by doing nothing.

Mooreville has gone 3,342 days without a traffic death. The last one was recorded Feb. 22, 1945.

The National Safety Council, noting the deathless record, this week presented town officials with a safety award, the eighth consecutive one.

The record has been achieved without safety drives and without radical changes in the town's traffic program.

This Rabbit Climbs Trees

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 8 (AP)—Well, doc, there was this rabbit sitting in a tree.

At least that's the tale told by two city detectives and a newspaper photographer. The detectives, who begged to remain incognito, walked into the Syracuse Herald-Journal office looking for a photographer.

Asked why, they replied: "We can't tell you—you wouldn't believe it. We've got to have a photographer to prove it."

Photographer Frank Monell went on safari with the detectives to a residential street. You could have knocked him over with a carrot top, Monell reported, for there was a rabbit perched in a tree, about 10 feet off the ground.

But the trio still can't prove it. Quicker than you could say "Harvey," Monell said, the bunny leaped from the tree and bounded away unphotographed.

Dulles To Speak

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Secretary of State Dulles will discuss "the evolution of foreign policy" in a nationally televised address next Tuesday night in New York City.

As they cross the Imjin River's Freedom Gate bridge into allied territory north of Munsan, searchlights will blaze the way. Loudspeakers will repeat in Korean and Chinese:

"There are hostiles among you. Weed them out. Keep moving."

North of Munsan, Chinese and Koreans will go into dozens of temporary holding compounds. From there, they will move south in trucks and trains. The north Koreans will be accommodated in South Korea. The Chinese will be taken to Inchon where U. S. ships will be waiting to transport to Formosa those who want to go there.

In Peiping, Red China's radio said anew today "it is impossible" under the armistice terms for this to be done legally. But the only retaliation it mentioned in case it did was the condemnation of "world public opinion."

DETROIT, Jan. 8 (AP)—A high-ranking police official said today that the shotgun blast which seriously wounded Walter Reuther in 1948 has been traced to gangster elements which tried to seize control of the big CIO United Auto Workers union which Reuther heads.

Wayne County Prosecutor Gerald K. O'Brien, told in an interview today some of the details which led to the naming of four men Wednesday as conspirators in the assassination attempt.

O'Brien said the gangsters' struggle to control the gigantic auto union's affairs was a more important factor in the assassination attempt than their desire to keep a multi-million dollar gambling ring operating in auto plants at the time of the shooting.

The real objective, O'Brien said, was to get the power to force management to agree to deals

Truman Okayed "Red Herring" Quotation's Use

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Former President Truman said today it was a reporter at a news conference who referred to congressional spy hunts in 1948 as a "red herring." Truman said he himself did not use the phrase.

An unofficial transcript of the Aug. 5, 1948 news conference showed that the reporter first used the words in a question, but that Truman later said "Yes, you can quote me . . . they are using this as a red herring to keep from doing what they ought to do."

Truman's version was given in an interview recorded for television today. The interview was between the ex-President and Drew Pearson, columnist—commentator whom Truman once called an "S.O.B."

"The facts in the case are," Truman said, that a reporter "asked me if the action of the Un-American Activities Committee was not in the form of a red herring to cover up what the Republican administration in the 80th Congress had not done, and I said it might be."

"And that's where it started . . . The phrase was thrown back at him frequently after the indictment and conviction of Alger Hiss, former State Department official, on charges of perjury in denying that he had furnished information to a Soviet spy courier."

Republican and Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee, where all tax measures must originate, were almost unanimous in calling for more tax reductions than the President proposed.

Ways and Means Chairman Daniel Reed (R-NY) served notice that he will oppose extending the present top corporation income tax rate of 52 per cent beyond next April 1, when it is scheduled to drop to 47 per cent. Eisenhower has asked for an extension.

The President has also renewed his request for an increase in the national debt limit, which is now fixed at 275 billion dollars. He hasn't said how much higher he wants to push the ceiling, but 15 billion was the figure proposed when the request was first made to Congress last summer.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Democratic leader in the Senate, said today the Democrats would exercise a "veto" power on some parts of the Eisenhower legislative program, and Sen. Byrd (D-Va.) announced he would try to stamp the first veto on the request for a higher debt ceiling.

Major Parts Of Program Are Opposed

Public Reaction Said Favoring Legislation, Capitol Hill Is Cool

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Members of Congress took a second look at President Eisenhower's legislative program today and let it be known that he will have to fight to get major parts of it through the House and Senate.

Public reaction to yesterday's State of the Union message, as measured by telegrams received at the White House, is "overwhelmingly in favor" of the Eisenhower program, Press Secretary James C. Hagerty reported.

Storm Signals Raised

He said that up to 4 p.m. today 300 telegrams had been received praising the President's message and 4 criticizing it.

But storm signals were hoisted on Capitol Hill, where it was evident the President will face stiff opposition when he tries to raise the national debt limit, hold taxes generally at present levels, and put farm price supports on a more flexible basis.

Even Eisenhower's estimate of a five billion dollar cut in expenditures during the next fiscal year was received coolly in some congressional circles.

Chairman Taber (R-NY) of the House Appropriations Committee said he expected the administration to submit a "tight" budget, but he added:

"I never saw a budget that couldn't be cut. That applies to all of them, Republican and Democratic."

There was early support, however, for the President's proposal to give the vote to 18 year olds, young citizens who, as Eisenhower put it, "have, in time of peril, been summoned to fight for America."

Two resolutions have already been introduced in the House, and one in the Senate, for a constitutional amendment extending the right of suffrage to citizens when they reach the age of 18.

There were signs that the Eisenhower tax program, as outlined in his State of the Union message yesterday, fell far short of what many members of Congress want in the way of tax reductions.

Fight Due On Taxes

House Speaker Martin (R-Mass) conceded that a whopping fight is in prospect over taxes. "I rather expect that is where we will have our biggest difficulty," he told reporters.

Republican and Democratic members of the House Ways and Means Committee, where all tax measures must originate, were almost unanimous in calling for more tax reductions than the President proposed.

Ways and Means Chairman Daniel Reed (R-NY) served notice that he will oppose extending the present top corporation income tax rate of 52 per cent beyond next April 1, when it is scheduled to drop to 47 per cent. Eisenhower has asked for an extension.

Long Term Plan To Aid Purchase Of Homes Sought

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP)—Sen. Capehart (R-Ind.) today suggested a billion dollar government program to help people buy homes on 50 to 60 year mortgages with little or no down payment.

Capehart, chairman of the Senate Banking Committee which will consider President Eisenhower's housing proposals, advanced what he called a "radical idea" of making homeowners of citizens otherwise unable to afford their own dwellings.

He told a CIO housing conference he has long been worried about the plight of citizens who cannot afford either a down payment on a home or "the high rents they are forced to pay today."

Capehart disapproved past programs under which public housing has been built with federal subsidies for rent to low-income families. He said it would be better to help such families finance their own homes.

"We could go into it on, say, a billion dollar basis figuring on losing 200 or 300 million," Capehart said.

"Even if we took a licking financially, because some of the people couldn't keep up their payments, I think we'd be better off as a nation than with the public housing plan. I think the vast majority would become successful homeowners."

Capehart said encouraging home ownership among low income citizens would be a good investment against any spread of communism.

"After all, communism is basically a fight against private enterprise," he said. "Communist attacks on freedom, on religion and other things, are all by-products of their main purpose of doing away with private property. Encouraging home ownership is the best way to combat this."

"Maybe my idea is no good, but to me it makes sense."

Federal Housing Administrator Albert M. Cole said President Eisenhower will offer "a very realistic" housing program to Congress on Jan. 25.

PRINCESS ANNE, Jan. 8 (AP)—Sen. Harry T. Phoebe (R-Somerset) has announced he'll try again this year with his often-defeated veterans bonus bill.

His proposal calls for a referendum on an 89-million-dollar bond issue to finance a bonus of up to $500 each for war veterans, depending upon length of service and foreign duty.

Phoebe said he will introduce the bill, as he has done at every session since World War II, when the Legislature meets next month.

Couple Plans Parents Reunion

EDINBURGH, Scotland, Jan. 8 (AP)—Newlyweds Isabella and Jimmy Goldsmith—runaways no longer—happily packed tonight for a honeymoon in France and a forgive-and-forget reunion with Isabella's father, tin magnate Antenor Patino.

"There has been a reconciliation," the 20-year-old bridegroom, handsome and dapper son of a wealthy London hotel owner, told a crowded news conference. Heirless Isabella, 18, who scorned a half dozen royal French suitors, eloped with Jimmy, smiled agreement and squeezed his hand.

The solution came yesterday when Patino, after dashing here from Paris in a futile attempt to find the runaways and dissuade them from marrying, suddenly withdrew a court ban he had obtained against the nuptials.

Seven hours later, in a border village of Kelso, Isabella and Jimmy were quietly wed in a civil ceremony.

The wedding climaxed a seven-month romance. The young lovers eluded chaperons in Paris and Casablanca and ducked away to Scotland for a quickie marriage after a regulation 15-day residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Patino didn't show up for the wedding. They took the night train to London, where they arrived today crisply refusing comment.

But Isabella and Jimmy appeared confident of a family reunion—perhaps in Paris where the Patinos live, or on the French Riviera, where Jimmy's parents, Maj. and Mrs. Frank Goldsmith, are on vacation.

Middletown Man Is Named State "Farmer Of Year"

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8 (AP)—J. Homer Remsburg, Frederick County dairy farmer, tonight received the Progressive Farmer's "Man of the Year" award for his service to Maryland agriculture.

Remsburg last summer was elected president of the Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America. The "Man of the Year" citation was presented at the annual Maryland Farm Bureau banquet by William C. LaRue of Richmond, associate editor of the farm magazine.

LaRue told the 700 gathered for the affair Remsburg had been responsible for remarkable achievements in the improvement of dairy cattle.

The award cited him for "outstanding leadership in promoting better agriculture and better rural life."

The farm publication has presented almost 50 such awards in the past 15 years—to governors, college presidents, experiment station directors and other farm experts.

The first one awarded in Maryland went last year to Dr. T. B. Symons, now acting president of the University of Maryland and for years dean of its agriculture school and director of farm extension work.

Remsburg operates two big dairy farms at Middletown and represents the fourth generation of his family to farm one of them. Besides being the first Southerner to become president of the national Holstein-Friesian Assn. he is president of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Assn.

He is a graduate of the University of Maryland and vice-president of its general alumni association. The annual banquet capped a busy day in which 280 voting delegates and as many onlookers from local units throughout the state opened the 38th Farm Bureau convention.

Executive Secretary C. E. Wise Jr. reported almost 11,000 members now enrolled, with a drive on to increase the membership to 12,000.

The convention will conclude Saturday noon with the election of officers and action on resolutions.

South Korea Criticizes U. S.

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 9 (AP)—A South Korean statement yesterday bluntly criticized the United States for the way it has supervised relations between Korea and Japan. The statement, released by the government's office of public information, protested that the United States wants South Korea to abandon all claims for return of "stolen property" taken during the Japanese occupation. It said the United States instead is asking South Korea to be satisfied with Japan's relinquishment of property claims on Korea.

"What kind of an exchange is it," the statement asked, "when the thief says he will not return property but will graciously refrain from coming back to steal what he didn't get the first time?" There was no comment immediately from Japanese government sources.

Paper Says Bings Girl Is Secretary Not Mona Freeman

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8 (AP)—The Mirror said today that "the girl in Bing Crosby's life" isn't Mona Freeman but Margot James, his private secretary until a week and a half ago.

"She's a dead ringer for Mona, except she's a little slimmer and taller," wrote columnist Kendis Rochlen. Her account continued: Before working for Bing, Margot was secretary to his brother Everett. She left her job with the crooner for one with a theatrical producer because it offered her more professional opportunity.

"Close pals indicate the romance looks serious," the report said. "She's attractive, has a beautiful figure, is smart and has known Bing for many years."

Perjury Is Common Grand Jury Charges

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8 (AP)—A retiring Baltimore grand jury today charged that perjury is a common practice in the city's courts and asked officials to enforce the law against lying under oath "to the utmost."

"The conflict of testimony under oath between the police courts, the traffic courts, the grand jury and the criminal courts in the city of Baltimore is utterly appalling," the report said.

The report was submitted to Judge Joseph L. Carter, Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith and Judge James K. Cullen.

The jury asked judges, state's attorneys and other grand juries to be "even more mindful than at present of this shocking situation and diligently strive together to stamp out this deplorable practice."

Bobo Accepts $5 1/2 Million

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—Barbara Sears (Bobo) Rockefeller today accepted a $5 1/2 million dollar settlement to end her Cinderella marriage. Time ran out on her just as it did on the original fairy tale heroine.

Her acceptance paved the way for a divorce for oil millionaire Winthrop Rockefeller, her onetime Prince Charming who now wants to live happily forever after—without her.

The svelte, blonde daughter of an immigrant coal miner, Bobo married into one of America's great fortunes on Valentine's Day in 1948. Rockefeller found her in a humble walkup flat beside the Third Avenue elevated here.

Their romance started with all the time-worn earmarks of the fairy tale—a lovely Cinderella taken out of her drab surroundings by a charming prince of wealth.

They even had an ex-King at their wedding in Palm Beach, Fla.—the Duke of Windsor.

It was the 42-year-old Rockefeller's first marriage, Bobo's second. The onetime stage actress was divorced from Richard Sears Jr., scion of an old Boston mercantile family.

Their only child, Winthrop Paul, was born to the Rockefellers Sept. 17, 1948. He is now 5.

In less than two years, however, the marriage hit the rocks. The couple have wrangled ever since over finances.

Long Term Plan To Aid Purchase Of Homes Sought

Middletown Man Is Named State "Farmer Of Year"

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8 (AP)—J. Homer Remsburg, Frederick County dairy farmer, tonight received the Progressive Farmer's "Man of the Year" award for his service to Maryland agriculture.

Remsburg last summer was elected president of the Holstein-Friesian Assn. of America.

The "Man of the Year" citation was presented at the annual Maryland Farm Bureau banquet by William C. LaRue of Richmond, associate editor of the farm magazine.

LaRue told the 700 gathered for the affair Remsburg had been responsible for remarkable achievements in the improvement of dairy cattle.

The award cited him for "outstanding leadership in promoting better agriculture and better rural life."

The farm publication has presented almost 50 such awards in the past 15 years—to governors, college presidents, experiment station directors and other farm experts.

The first one awarded in Maryland went last year to Dr. T. B. Symons, now acting president of the University of Maryland and for years dean of its agriculture school and director of farm extension work.

Remsburg operates two big farms at Middletown and represents the fourth generation of his family to farm one of them. Besides being the first Southerner to become president of the national Holstein-Friesian Assn. he is president of the Maryland-Virginia Milk Producers Assn.

He is a graduate of the University of Maryland and vice-president of its general alumni association. The annual banquet capped a busy day in which 280 voting delegates and as many onlookers from local units throughout the state opened the 38th Farm Bureau convention.

Executive Secretary C. E. Wise Jr. reported almost 11,000 members now enrolled, with a drive on to increase the membership to 12,000.

The convention will conclude Saturday noon with the election of officers and action on resolutions.

South Korea Criticizes U. S.

SEOUL, Saturday, Jan. 9 (AP)—A South Korean statement yesterday bluntly criticized the United States for the way it has supervised relations between Korea and Japan.

The statement, released by the government's office of public information, protested that the United States wanted South Korea to abandon all claims for return of "stolen property" taken during the Japanese occupation. It said the United States instead is asking South Korea to be satisfied with Japan's relinquishment of property claims on Korea.

"What kind of an exchange is it," the statement asked, "when the thief says he will not return property but will graciously refrain from coming back to steal what he didn't get the first time?" There was no comment immediately from Japanese government sources.

Paper Says Bings Girl Is Secretary Not Mona Freeman

LOS ANGELES, Jan. 8 (AP)—The Mirror said today that "the girl in Bing Crosby's life" isn't Mona Freeman but Margot James, his private secretary until a week and a half ago.

"She's a dead ringer for Mona, except she's a little slimmer and taller," wrote columnist Kendis Rochlen. Her account continued:

Before working for Bing, Margot was secretary to his brother Everett. She left her job with the crooner for one with a theatrical producer because it offered her more professional opportunity.

"Close pals indicate the romance looks serious," the report said. "She's attractive, has a beautiful figure, is smart and has known Bing for many years."

Perjury Is Common Grand Jury Charges

BALTIMORE, Jan. 8 (AP)—A retiring Baltimore grand jury today charged that perjury is a common practice in the city's courts and asked officials to enforce the law against lying under oath "to the utmost."

"The conflict of testimony under oath between the police courts, the traffic courts, the grand jury and the criminal courts in the city of Baltimore is utterly appalling," the report said.

The report was submitted to Judge Joseph L. Carter, Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith and Judge James K. Cullen.

The jury asked judges, state's attorneys and other grand jurors to be "even more mindful than at present of this shocking situation and diligently strive together to stamp out this deplorable practice."

Bobo Accepts $5 1/2 Million

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—Barbara Sears (Bobo) Rockefeller today accepted a $5 1/2 million dollar settlement to end her Cinderella marriage. Time ran out on her just as it did on the original fairy tale heroine.

Her acceptance paved the way for a divorce for oil millionaire Winthrop Rockefeller, her onetime Prince Charming who now wants to live happily ever after—without her.

The svelte, blonde daughter of an immigrant coal miner, Bobo married into one of America's great fortunes on Valentine's Day in 1948. Rockefeller found her in a humble walkup flat beside the Third Avenue elevated here.

Their romance started with all the time-worn earmarks of the fairy tale—a lovely Cinderella taken out of her drab surroundings by a charming prince of wealth.

They even had an ex-King at their wedding in Palm Beach, Fla.—the Duke of Windsor.

It was the 42-year-old Rockefeller's first marriage, Bobo's second. The onetime stage actress was divorced from Richard Sears Jr., scion of an old Boston mercantile family.

Their only child, Winthrop Paul, was born to the Rockefellers Sept. 17, 1948. He is now 5.

In less than two years, however, the marriage hit the rocks. The couple have wrangled ever since over finances.

Little Accident

And then the visitors came. First was her special friend, little Gail Bowman, age 6, of 500 North Mechanic Street. Gail saw Sally get hit and run over by the car. She said, "Sally was coming from school and said 'hello' to me. Then the car hit her. I was scared, but mother came and took Sally to the hospital."

But Gail is happy her friend is home and promised to visit every day and help play with all the dolls.

Some of Sally's other schoolmates and little neighbors dropped in and it looked like a busy day for Mr. and Mrs. Myers.

Despite her injuries, Sally is cheerful. Like all youngsters from normal happy homes, she has the "bounce-back" needed to overcome disaster and handicap. But she does have one little worry. Just before this visit was ended she confided, "Could I whisper something to you?"

And here is what she wanted to know. "Do you think the other kids will laugh at me when I have to walk on crutches?"

"Sally, your friends won't laugh at you ... and the others don't matter."

We hope that was the right answer.

Sally's father, a home appliance serviceman employed at Sears Roebuck and Company, is philosophical about it all. He and Mrs. Myers believe Sally will fully recover. Her physicians think so too. Floyd Myers said, "It could have been worse. We are very grateful."

During her long ordeal, Sally has kept up with some of her school work. She is tutored each week by a visiting teacher, Miss Jennie Lee, and is also assisted in her studies by her parents.

She doesn't want to get behind in her school work, and remarked that she misses her teacher at Centre Street, Miss Martha F. Shaner. "My teacher remembers me. Every day I was in the hospital, she sent me something," Sally exclaimed. "She is nice."

It will be a long time before Sally can walk again. But if her belated Christmas is any indication, she won't be too lonely or too unhappy.

She has plenty of toys to play with, parents who adore her, and friends and neighbors and many other people who will visit her.

Census Bureau Seeking Data On Co. Jobs

Questions on work experience during 1953 will be asked in the January Current Population Survey, according to District Supervisor Ralph E. Percy of the U. S. Census Bureau's district office at Pittsburgh. The survey will be conducted in this area the week of January 11.

The principal work experience question will ask how many weeks were worked during 1953. Supplementary questions will determine whether this was full-time or part-time work and the type of work done.

The work experience information makes it possible to estimate the nation's available labor supply. This estimate is used in planning both business and defense program activities. In 1952 approximately 70½ million persons were members of the nation's working force at some time although the peak number employed at any one time was about 62½ million in June. Thus, two out of every three persons in the population who were of working age were employed at some time during the year. The January survey will provide similar measures for 1953.

The questions on work experience are in addition to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the population survey. Interviews in this area are handled by Mrs. Olive E. Claar of Cumberland.

Supervisor Percy pointed out that information furnished to the Census Bureau concerning individual persons is accorded confidential treatment under the law and only statistical totals are published.

A number of meetings will be held here later on at which the persons attending the session will impart what was learned which can be used to further the Democratic party in Allegheny County.

Waste Coal Fire To Be Extinguished

Plans have been made to extinguish a fire which is burning in waste coal near the surface just outside Lonaconing on Jackson Mountain.

James Getty, attorney for Lonaconing, appeared before the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners yesterday to describe the condition. Getty said the community uses the tract where the fire is under way as a dumping ground. The fire, if it is not stopped, may eventually work its way to the main seam of coal about 30 feet below the surface, Getty explained.

If this took place the fire would probably never be stopped and would burn through the coal seams in the mountain.

In immediate danger is the county road, which runs about 50 yards from where the coal is burning. Any expansion of the smoldering fire would undermine the road, Getty said.

Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, inspected the situation and he said the fire could be smothered by using a bulldozer to push rock and earth over the area affected. Powers said the community dump grounds is not a fire and is not responsible for the blaze.

The county commissioners were asked to share the cost of having the fire smothered. It was estimated the work would take about two days.

Man Fined For Assault, Motor Counts

An Oldtown Road resident received a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail and was placed on parole for a year at a hearing yesterday morning before Magistrate Donald W. Mason on an assault charge.

The man, Wesley James Kipe Jr., was also convicted on two motor vehicle violations resulting from his efforts to avoid having the warrant charging the assault served on him. He pleaded not guilty to the three separate counts.

The warrant was issued on the complaint of Mrs. Naomi E. Rankin, 1015 Virginia Avenue, who claimed Kipe had assaulted her on December 2. The traffic violations

Local Trucker Escapes Injury

After the gasoline and oil drained out of the truck the vehicle was righted and towed into Somerset. After being refueled the truck was driven back to Cumberland by Volk.

Little Accident

And then the visitors came. First was her special friend, little Gail Bowman, age 6, of 500 North Mechanic Street. Gail saw Sally get hit and run over by the car. She said, "Sally was coming from school and said 'hello' to me. Then the car hit her. I was scared, but mother came and took Sally to the hospital."

But Gail is happy her friend is home and promised to visit every day and help play with all the dolls.

Some of Sally's other schoolmates and little neighbors dropped in and it looked like a busy day for Mr. and Mrs. Myers.

Despite her injuries, Sally is cheerful. Like all youngsters from normal happy homes, she has the "bounce-back" needed to overcome disaster and handicap. But she does have one little worry. Just before this visit was ended she confided, "Could I whisper something to you?"

And here is what she wanted to know. "Do you think the other kids will laugh at me when I have to walk on crutches?"

"Sally, your friends won't laugh at you . . . and the others don't matter."

We hope that was the right answer.

Sally's father, a home appliance serviceman employed at Sears Roebuck and Company, is philosophical about it all. He and Mrs. Myers believe Sally will fully recover. Her physicians think so too. Floyd Myers said, "It could have been worse. We are very grateful."

During her long ordeal, Sally has kept up with some of her school work. She is tutored each week by a visiting teacher, Miss Jennie Lee, and is also assisted in her studies by her parents.

She doesn't want to get behind in her school work, and remarked that she misses her teacher at Centre Street, Miss Martha F. Shaner. "My teacher remembers me. Every day I was in the hospital, she sent me something," Sally exclaimed. "She is nice."

It will be a long time before Sally can walk again. But if her belated Christmas is any indication, she won't be too lonely or too unhappy.

She has plenty of toys to play with, parents who adore her, and friends and neighbors and many other people who will visit her.

Census Bureau Seeking Data On Co. Jobs

Questions on work experience during 1953 will be asked in the January Current Population Survey, according to District Supervisor Ralph E. Percy of the U. S. Census Bureau's district office at Pittsburgh. The survey will be conducted in this area the week of January 11.

The principal work experience question will ask how many weeks were worked during 1953. Supplementary questions will determine whether this was full-time or part-time work and the type of work done.

The work experience information makes it possible to estimate the nation's available labor supply. This estimate is used in planning both business and defense program activities. In 1952 approximately 70½ million persons were members of the nation's working force at some time although the peak number employed at any one time was about 62½ million in June. Thus, two out of every three persons in the population who were of working age were employed at some time during the year. The January survey will provide similar measures for 1953.

The questions on work experience are in addition to the regular inquiries on employment and unemployment which are asked each month in the population survey. Interviews in this area are handled by Mrs. Olive E. Claar of Cumberland.

Supervisor Percy pointed out that information furnished to the Census Bureau concerning individual persons is accorded confidential treatment under the law and only statistical totals are published.

Waste Coal Fire To Be Extinguished

Plans have been made to extinguish a fire which is burning in waste coal near the surface just outside Lonaconing on Jackson Mountain.

James Getty, attorney for Lonaconing, appeared before the Allegheny County Board of Commissioners yesterday to describe the condition. Getty said the community uses the tract where the fire is under way as a dumping ground. The fire, if it is not stopped, may eventually work its way to the main seam of coal about 30 feet below the surface, Getty explained. If this took place the fire would probably never be stopped and would burn through the coal seams in the mountain.

In immediate danger is the county road, which runs about 50 yards from where the coal is burning. Any expansion of the smoldering fire would undermine the road, Getty said.

Frank T. Powers, director of the Maryland Bureau of Mines, inspected the situation and he said the fire could be smothered by using a bulldozer to push rock and earth over the area affected. Powers said the community dump grounds is not afire and is not responsible for the blaze.

The county commissioners were asked to share the cost of having the fire smothered. It was estimated the work would take about two days.

Man Fined For Assault, Motor Counts

An Oldtown Road resident received a suspended sentence of 90 days in jail and was placed on parole for a year at a hearing yesterday morning before Magistrate Donald W. Mason on an assault charge.

The man, Wesley James Kipe Jr., was also convicted on two motor vehicle violations resulting from his efforts to avoid having the warrant charging the assault served on him. He pleaded not guilty to the three separate counts.

The warrant was issued on the complaint of Mrs. Naomi E. Rankin, 1015 Virginia Avenue, who claimed Kipe had assaulted her on December 2. The traffic violations were preferred by City Patrolmen Richard W. Lashley and E. Gordon Hite, charging Kipe with exceeding 30 miles per hour and reckless driving.

Fatal Mishap Driver Draws $10 Fine

The Cumberland man who was the driver of the car involved in the first fatal highway accident of the year in the area was fined $10 and costs on a charge resulting from the mishap.

Avery L. Spellman was convicted of passing in a no-passing zone at a hearing before Justice of the Peace C. C. Dyche in Berkeley Springs.

Spellman was approaching the Potomac River bridge at Paw Paw when his car struck a bicycle operated by John N. Crane, 12-year-old native of Cumberland, who died shortly afterwards of the resulting injuries.

The accident, the first fatality reported in Morgan County (W. Va.), occurred January 2.

Recreation Department Needs Women Leaders

The City Recreation Department needs more woman leaders to help handle the winter grade school recreation program. Robert E. Pence, city recreation director, announced yesterday.

Leaders should have some knowledge or experience in teaching games, handicraft, simple dramatics and music.

Magistrate Mason granted the parole on condition that Kipe pay for medical expenses incurred by Mrs. Rankin from the assault, that he be of good behavior and stay away from her and her home and that he pay the court costs of the case.

Kipe was fined $15 and costs on the speeding count and $10 and costs on the reckless charge.

Take Someone To Church This Week . . . You'll Both Be Richer For It

time-out

It takes a lot of energy to wield a rattle. It takes even more to crawl across the room. A fellow just has to take a time-out once in a while.

That's an important lesson for all of us to learn. It is nothing short of suicide to let one's work and recreation rob his body of the natural opportunity to replenish its resources in rest.

Our souls also need a frequent time-out. Life depletes our spiritual resources. Man needs regular times for worship, for prayer, and for religious inspiration.

The Church is meeting this need in the lives of many of your neighbors and friends. Are you—and your whole family—taking advantage of the time-out for spiritual replenishment which the Church offers? We invite you to attend the church of your choice next Sunday!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL . . . ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Regulating Treaty Power

"Substantial progress" is reported by Senate Republican Leader Knowland on a compromise between the White House and Senator Bricker (R., Ohio) on the senator's proposal to limit the authority of treaties. A compromise acceptable to both the administration and Bricker presumably would meet little opposition in the Senate.

Bricker at the 1953 session introduced a constitutional amendment then strongly opposed by the administration. Secretary of State Dulles testified at a Senate Judiciary Committee hearing on April 6 that the Bricker amendment and a parallel proposal originating with the American Bar Association would:

"Deprive the nation of treaty-making power in large areas. They would deny to all treaties the force of law, making their enforcement depend on subsequent action of the Congress and, in the case of Senate Judiciary Resolution 43, also of the 48 states. They would subject the current, day-by-day, conduct of foreign affairs to impediments which might be stifling."

The Dulles testimony represented a partial reversal of a stand taken by Dulles as a private citizen a year earlier. On April 12, 1952, addressing a bar association meeting at Louisville, Dulles had warned that the "treaty-making power is an extraordinary power liable to abuse" that can "override the Constitution" and even "cut across the rights given by the constitutional Bill of Rights."

Also testifying against the Bricker amendment before the Judiciary Committee were Attorney General Brownell, Foreign Operations Administrator Stassen, and a spokesman for the Defense Department. But the amendment had had the initial support of 63 senators in addition to Bricker, and the general backing of the ABA and various patriotic and professional groups.

The resolution was favorably reported by the Judiciary Committee on June 15 by a 9 to 5 vote. Republicans opposed were Chairman Wiley of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee and Senator Langer (N.D.).

Negotiations for compromise on a new text which might be acceptable to both sides were carried on for more than a month. An amendment proposed by Senator Knowland on July 22 with the "unqualified support" of President Eisenhower would have had the effect of eliminating the "which clause" of the Bricker amendment. This clause, embodied in Section 2 of the amendment, provides that a treaty "shall become effective as internal law only through legislation which would be valid in the absence of a treaty."

In a detailed analysis of the amendment before an ABA meeting in Boston on August 26, Secretary Dulles said, "This would set the clock back to an approximation of the condition which existed under the Articles of Confederation." Of 23 treaties approved by the Senate since January 1953, Dulles said 12 would have been unconstitutional if the Bricker amendment had been in effect.

But the ABA House of Delegates reaffirmed its previous stand, despite the opposition of Dulles and the ABA's own section on international law.

Thundering TV Herd

Judges of the Sylvania Television Awards have taken the opportunity to rap television commercials smartly over the knuckles by saying that repetition and increased volume of sound make most TV commercials downright obnoxious.

For some strange reason, the proponents of screaming huckstering who moved from radio into the wonderland of television brought with them their devotion to noise. They seem to think that, by yelling at an American family in a 12 by 14 living room, they'll sell more soap, beer, cigarettes or powdered coffee.

These pitchmen still abide by the theory that they are barkers in front of a side show tent and that the more they bellow, the more effective they are.

There was a time when it seemed the breed would die out—as radio became more mature. Instead, it increased. When television came into being, it was fondly hoped that a new type of hawk would move in to use the medium for advertising purposes with softer voice and more subdued approach.

But alas—the thundering herd is still on the air. Punch—emphasis—vitality—and more punch! This seems to be the generally accepted formula of the haranguing salesmen of the screen and, what's more, they have some weird sound and visual effects to aid them—just as the old-fashioned medicine man used the tom-tom and the cornet.

No wonder the Sylvania TV Judges confessed they are disturbed by the lack of quality and persuasiveness of TV commercials. But there can be no reform until a new breed of producers of commercials rises up to regard viewers as intelligent individuals who do not want to be herded into a buying spree by a bunch of whooping and yelling exhorters.

The Hybrid Payoff

Usually references to American genius for invention or quantity production of goods have to do with manufactured devices coming off an assembly line. But they are just as applicable to the genius of an American like G. H. Shull.

Back in 1905, as a biologist for the Carnegie Institute, he started work that resulted in hybrid corn. What he did was to discover that certain pure strains of corn, when crossbred, grew extra tall and produced giant-sized ears. And today most of the corn grown in this country is hybrid.

Not so in Europe. The corn raised by Europeans since Columbus found it in Cuba hadn't changed much. But a big change going on now dates from 1947, when a United Nations team of experts began working up hybrids of corn adapted to various European soils and climates. The UN's Food and Agriculture agency put $40,000 into the project.

That not much corn was grown outside the United States and Central America, many Americans have accepted as fact. A quick pass at the encyclopedia shows this to be a misconception. Besides South America, corn is grown in Russia, China, India and Southern Europe. The U. S. production is about one-half the world's total.

So the interest of the U. N. in corn is by no means an impractical or visionary idea. The Indians had modern Americans a sizable favor in handing their emigrant European ancestors a major new source of food. It can be a pleasure now for modern America to pass on a favor in the form of even better corn.

Dregs Of Humanity

Can skid row alcoholics be rehabilitated? Many articles have been written on the subject but at Boston's Long Island hospital, something is being done about it. The program has been adopted from the working parole system introduced more than 10 years ago by Dr. J. Thimann.

The desire to drink has led these homeless men to abandon all previous contacts. According to Dr. David J. Myerson, they drift from one flophouse to another and are interested in money only for the liquor it buys. Punishment, threats, or incarceration never cures. Some of these men have been jailed 30 times in 10 years. They are suspicious and pessimistic about help. Furthermore, they are so demanding, those who know them best recommend that their pleas and requests be disregarded. Once they get what they want, their demands grow beyond the stage of reason. Refusal at this time is followed by rage, anger, and wholesale denunciation of all concerned.

Jail has a sobering influence but, on release, they find themselves destitute and in rags. The setup is bewildering and frightening and leaves no alternative but to return to the flophouse and bottle. This is where the Long Island hospital plan comes to the rescue. After the individual sobers up, he is not released completely; he resides at the hospital for an extended period and is allowed to work outside. In this way he is protected during his free time, while learning to live without alcohol. These human wrecks also are given antabuse, the drug that induces nausea and other symptoms on taking a drink. The program avoids the need for handouts and breaks the vicious circle of drinking to overcome the humiliation of destitution and homelessness.

In a recent issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, Dr. Myerson described the experiences of a man who imbibed for 20 years and during the last decade had not been sober except when in jail. He had adjusted himself to skid row, drinking until exhausted, being jailed, and repeating the pattern time and time again. The derelict had heard of the program and although suspicious at first, asked to be allowed to try it. The going was tough, when he was told that the first part of the rehabilitation process consisted of work on the hospital grounds for one to two months, he wanted special privileges, which were refused on the ground that the program was voluntary. He started working eight hours a day and in time proved to be cooperative but somewhat aloof. In the third week he was placed on antabuse, began psychiatric care, and attended AA one evening a week. By the fifth week he was able to buy a suit of clothes with the money he had earned. He lived at the hospital five months and then got an outside job. When last seen, he was doing well.

THROMBOSIS AND OCCLUSION

Mrs. R. S. writes: What is the difference between coronary thrombosis and coronary occlusion?

REPLY

None. The two names stem from the fact that in this condition the coronary artery is occluded by a thrombus. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for leaflet on coronary disease.

SEEKS REFUGE

P. S. writes: I have a heart condition and would like to know where to retire as far as climate is concerned.

REPLY

The South offers the most favorable climate.

BORIC ACID

Mrs. J. writes: Is the use of boric acid harmful to the newborn?

REPLY

At present, boric acid is in disrepute. Furthermore, it is not an effective antiseptic, and safer and better substitutes are available.

NUTRITIONAL NEEDS

Mr. D. C. writes: Is it necessary for growing children to have potatoes, eggs, and bread every day?

REPLY

Bread and eggs are essential but there are many substitutes for potato. Most daily diets are planned to include the basic seven: meat, eggs, vegetables, fruits, bread, dairy products, and cereals. Other foods are added depending upon the taste and nutritional needs of the individual.

IT VARIES

M. S. writes: How long does a person have to continue taking injections before they are cured of hay fever?

REPLY

Hay fever is controllable; it can not be cured.

SMOKING AND ULCERS

Mrs. Y. writes: Would smoking every morning before breakfast cause stomach ulcers?

REPLY

To my knowledge there is no proof that smoking at any time leads to ulcers.

RISKY STONES

S. T. writes: Are gallstones as dangerous as kidney stones?

REPLY

No. Kidney stones are potentially more dangerous because the renal organs are essential to life.

Ike Tells Democrats Not To "Leak;" Gov. Dewey Still Seems To Be Eying White House; Speaker Martin Counts On Some Democratic Help

WASHINGTON—One of the chief things President Eisenhower emphasized during his bipartisan talks with Democratic and Republican congressional leaders was that not one scrap of information must leak to the press. Not only did the President himself emphasize this, but Secretary of Defense Wilson backed him up.

Wilson told how he and his aides in the Pentagon had prepared a secret report relating to cutting down the Army which he planned to submit to the White House.

"No decision had been reached on this report because the President hadn't even read it," the secretary of defense told the White House conferees. I kept it right on my desk. Imagine our amazement, therefore, when, next day, while it was still on its way to the White House, the substance of the report was published in the press. It was the fastest leak I ever saw."

"Well, you can't blame that one on the Democrats," piped up Democratic leader John McCormack of Massachusetts.

Headlines And Footnotes

New York's Gov. Tom Dewey still seems to have his eyes on bigger political things. He has recently been wooing the labor bosses. Dewey has reminded them that his man, Secretary of Labor Mitchell, is running the Labor Department and that Sen. Irving Ives of New York, another Dewey Republican, is a key man on the Senate Labor Committee. . . . Secretary of State Dulles clashed with Secretary of Agriculture Benson at a recent cabinet meeting over Benson's two-price farm plan. Benson's idea was to support domestic farm prices, but force farmers to sell their surplus overseas at the world market price. Dulles objected that this amounted to dumping our surplus and would upset world trade. . . . Sen. Joe McCarthy is at loggerheads with his chief counsel, Roy Cohn, who has been whispering behind the boss's back. Cohn tried to transfer to the rival spy hunters, headed by Indiana Sen. Bill Jenner, but he was afraid of antagonizing McCarthy. Meanwhile, McCarthy is trying to find another lawyer of Jewish faith so he won't risk the charge of anti-Semitism if Cohn leaves. . . . Russian diplomats, who turn their charm on and off according to instructions from the Kremlin, are now bubbling over with good will. They are telling Western diplomats that the upcoming Big Four meeting in Berlin can settle the differences between East and West. . . . Budget boss Joe Dodge is trying to close down Merchant Marine hospitals in order to save money. . . . The Army's new guided missile, the Nike, now being installed to protect key cities from air attack, will be manned by National Guard units. . . . South Carolina politicians are taking up a collection to buy a bench for Gov. Jimmie Byrnes so he can retire and become an elder statesman like Bernard Baruch.

Speaker Martin Predicts

The speaker of the House of Representatives is given a decorous though not ornate office just off the floor of Congress where he rests up from presiding over the sometimes tumultuous 435 members of the House. But Speaker Joe Martin seldom occupies this office.

Instead he has a couple of rooms behind the speaker's rostrum, looking down Pennsylvania Avenue toward the White House, for which he has to pass a difficult legislative program. There you will usually find Joe, as everyone on Capitol Hill calls him, with a big pile of papers on his desk.

The speaker apologizes for his papers. "A newspaperman," he says, "can never get his desk cleaned up. It's a disease." (Most people don't know, incidentally, that the speaker is a newspaper publisher by profession and a politician by choice, being the owner of the North Attleboro, Mass., Chronicle.)

Down the narrow corridor from Joe Martin's private office is the private office of ex-Speaker Sam Rayburn.

"I like to have an office over here where I can slip in to see Sam," Martin told this writer, when I asked him why he didn't use his big office at the front of the Capitol. "Sam and I have a lot of things we have to work out from time to time."

"Sam is a good friend and a square shooter to work with," continued the speaker when asked about cooperation from the strong and growing Democratic minority. "We differ, of course. That's the American way of things. But Sam's word is as good as his bond. Never has he ever violated his word to me, nor, I hope, to him. And on questions of foreign policy and so on, I know I can count on Sam to help pass the President's program."

"As a matter of fact," said Joe Martin, "healthy opposition is a good thing. It will keep the Republican party on its toes. I think that Sam himself recognizes it would have been better if the Democrats had had more opposition in the early days of Roosevelt. At that time we had only 80-some Republicans in the House, and if they had had more opposition, certain elements in the Democratic party couldn't have put across certain policies."

"It's going to be an interesting session of Congress," concluded the speaker philosophically. "And at times a tough one. But when policies are for the good of the country, you can predict the Democrats and Republicans will pull together."

Today In Washington

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON—Nobody, after reading President Eisenhower's message on the "State of the Union," will be able to say his administration is lacking in ideas—difficult as it may prove to be to put most of them into effect. For Mr. Eisenhower in his address to Congress touched on every conceivable subject of major importance on which there can be legislative or executive action.

But in most instances the President didn't give details or a bill of particulars. He promises these details in a series of messages on separate subjects, all to be delivered at different times during the rest of January.

The average man cannot grasp the meaning of all the topics covered in a presidential message on the "State of the Union." He can only get the feel of things. And the best way to describe the feeling to be derived is to say that the President is conscientiously and earnestly struggling to find solutions to a never-ending series of dilemmas at home and abroad.

A presidential address isn't a piece of legislation. Hence, it necessarily is written in implicit phrases. These phrases nevertheless give a hint of what's coming. "Tyranny In Trouble"

Mr. Eisenhower refers to 1953 as "the most prosperous year" in the nation's history. But much depends on what is meant by "prosperous." A flush of fever gives the face a look of health, but it conceals an illness. The "prosperity" of inflation from 1940 to 1953 can produce an epidemic of unemployment in the years ahead. It hasn't been a "prosperous" era for persons whose dollar has shrunk in buying power.

Nor is there "peace." Communist aggression has been halted in Korea, says the President. But he notes that aggression is continuing in Indo-China. The fighting in Korea is ended, but the draft for military service goes on. He thinks "tyranny is in trouble" behind the iron curtain, and leaves the impression that may this be the reason for what he calls "a great strategic change in the world during the past year."

Mr. Eisenhower appears to believe we have attained the "initiative" and that our foreign policy now is "free to develop along lines of our choice." But the behavior of the Kremlin to date offers no concrete proof of that hopeful wish. What the President said about the United Nations is worth noting. For the words are carefully chosen. He says the United Nations is the place "where the nations of the world can, if they have the will, take collective action for peace and justice." But he doesn't mention that they didn't have the will, and that Russia and India, both members of the U. N., called themselves "neutral" when aggression occurred.

The President adds that the U. N. is a place "where the guilt can be squarely assigned." But he doesn't point out that Soviet Russia has publicly admitted her guilt in aiding the aggressor in Korea, and yet has never been tried at the bar of justice in the U. N. Such omissions merely promote the cause of hypocrisy in the world and tend to discourage champions of truth and justice.

Mr. Eisenhower hopes Western Europe is gaining in "self-reliance" and says that, while military assistance to Europe must be increased, economic assistance can be diminished. He speaks vaguely of a "healthier and freer system of trade" and payments within the free world. This is a glimpse of the big tariff controversy ahead.

But behind it all lurks the specter of Soviet misbehavior, and the President somewhat wistfully, it appears, says that "a truly constructive reaction" toward his proposal for an atomic-energy pool "will make possible a new start toward an era of peace." The world has been waiting in vain a long time for something "constructive" to emerge from Moscow.

Cites Key To Future

If peace can be assured or a war postponed, then lots of domestic reforms can be expected. Tax revision, enlarged social-security programs, a stabilized formula for agriculture, an improvement rather than a repeal of the Taft-Hartley Act, and some stern measures against convicted Communists—mention of which got big applause from both Democrats and Republicans—are all put before Congress now as they are given the momentum of a presidential recommendation.

There are the customary words in the message about fostering "individual initiative" and "economic growth." But there's an ominous note in the request for a raising of the legal limit to the public debt and in the significant omission of any promise to balance the budget at a given time. Plans there are to cushion the shock of a recession or depression, and promises are made for federal aid in building schools and public works.

The key to the future, however, is in a single concluding paragraph, in which the President says: "A government can sincerely strive for peace, as ours is striving, and ask its people to make sacrifices for the sake of peace. But no government can place peace in the hearts of foreign rulers."

Here And Now

Wrong Number

"Hello, Central! Please ring 1-9-53!" (Ting-a-ling-a-ling!)
"Go ahead!"
"This is Rip van Winkle, calling for the correct time."
"You have the wrong number, sir. This is 1-9-54!"
"I'm sorry! I must have been asleep."

Between tearing off calendar leaves month by month and changing back and forth between standard and daylight saving times, all but the coolest heads are apt to miss their bus and arrive late at church or not at all.

Add to that the confusion about the Piltdown man, whether Shakespeare wrote "Shakespeare" or another man by the same name did it, when the first space-ship will travel to the moon, whether or when there will be another war, who will win the next election—and we seem to be living in a ghost world needing a habeas corpus to bring us back to sanity.

The other day this writer had his ego inflated by a letter which read in part: "I'd like to make a prediction about your career. We selected your name on the basis of information which indicates you are a business man of stature and still going up. If our information is as accurate as it was costly, you will probably become a—reader before you reach the peak of your career."

Compliment Can Be Dangerous
The letter was plausibly written but it was evidently sent to the wrong person and it followed the beaten path to the friendly wastebasket.

In self-defense I must now say, before the urgency becomes so great that "I am not a candidate for governor, nor can I conceive of any circumstances which would persuade me to become a candidate."

A compliment may be a dangerous thing. A tribute is ex post facto, and can do no harm.

The average person likes to hear nice words about himself, even though he knows they ain't so. But beware of bandying compliments about!

This affiant once innocently addressed a friend as "Poet," and the said rhymster came back with an accusation that was quite flattering, though not quite true. He wrote:

"Concluding, I will now aver,
(This Roland for your Oliver)
That you deserve the title
'Goat!';
For, while you titillate me
'Poet!'
I'd have the 'plauding word to know it,
That pushing, steadfast, earnest go-it
Is in your make-up; and to row it,
Any boat your oar will show it;
If you've seed to plant, you sow it,
If ripened grain to reap you mow it,

If you've a horn,—you never blow it,
All will concur."

It took Gibbon 10 years to finish his "Rise and Fall." There are times when an extemporaneous speaker may accomplish this in that many minutes.

Never be so foolish as to try to stand in another man's shoes. Wear your own size. A young preacher was invited to be guest of the great London divine, Charles H. Spurgeon. The young man wore a new Prince Albert suit and a tile hat, in honor of the occasion. The big preacher wore a sack suit and a slouch hat. The young man was not comfortable, Spurgeon probably didn't notice the difference.

Unpleasant Experience
It is not a comfortable feeling to be found in the wrong pew and to be told that this section is reserved for the dignitaries. Nor would it be a pleasant experience to have a cop throw you out of Senator McCarthy's inquisition room because you refused to talk.

But it would be terrific if in the next world one would find himself in the wrong place—the place he didn't expect to be—and with no identification and no passport, although one might easily have been obtained.

For a fancied offense, Michaelangelo put a cardinal in hell in one of his frescoes. The irate cleric went to the pope about it. His Holiness said, "If he had put you in purgatory I might have been able to get you out, but since he has put you in hell, there is nothing can be done about it."

There is a tradition that when Elizabeth Fry reached heaven she was surprised to see so many of earth's mighty ones waved aside, and doubly surprised to hear Jesus say, "Come . . . blessed of my Father" (Matt. 25:34). She replied, "I often visited the prisoners in Newgate, but when did I see you there?"

No one should die till his work is finished. One man appeared at the Heavenly gate and his name was not on the roll book. "Look again," said he to St. Peter, "for I fed the hungry, visited the sick and welcomed the stranger." St. Peter was gone a long time and came back saying, "Your name is here all right, but you are five years ahead of your time. Who was your doctor?"

time-out

It takes a lot of energy to wield a rattle. It takes even more to crawl across the room. A fellow just has to take a time-out once in a while.

That's an important lesson for all of us to learn. It is nothing short of suicide to let one's work and recreation rob his body of the natural opportunity to replenish its resources in rest.

Our souls also need a frequent time-out. Life depletes our spiritual resources. Man needs regular times for worship, for prayer, and for religious inspiration.

The Church is meeting this need in the lives of many of your neighbors and friends. Are you—and your whole family—taking advantage of the time-out for spiritual replenishment which the Church offers? We invite you to attend the church of your choice next Sunday!

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

Petersburg May Organize Council Of All Churches

PETERSBURG — A meeting of the Petersburg Ministerial Association and four lay representatives from each Petersburg church will be held at the Presbyterian Church Sunday, at 3 p. m. The purpose of this meeting is to study the possibilities of organizing a Council of Churches to plan all meetings of inter-denominational nature.

The Ministerial Association has been doing this work in the past but are of the opinion that more can be accomplished by an organization including lay members as well as ministers.

Petersburg already has an organization known as the Council of Church Women, with the National Council of Church Women but their work is that of planning local meetings in coordination with the National and International meetings, such as World Day of Prayer, May Fellowship, and such other meetings as are proposed by the National Council.

These easy, contouring and firming exercises quickly put upper-arm flabbiness to flight!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It's unnecessary for a woman to take to cover merely because of upper-arm flabbiness. True, it has been less of a hardship during this season than in the past because many of the loveliest evening fashions have not had the bare look. But you can be sure that when summer arrives, arms and shoulders will be out and smartly evident again.

Many women believe excessive plumpness of the arm from elbow to shoulder and it's natural accompaniment, flabbiness, are the inevitable result of age and therefore must be accepted as gracefully as possible — along with sleeves, shrugs, little jackets or scarves to hide the unwanted flesh.

To Firm Arms

But with a right good will, combined with a sufficient degree of persistence, firm contours can be reclaimed. The exercises that turn the trick are relatively easy and certainly not in the least fatiguing and can be carried out either while standing or sitting.

Raise your arms to shoulder level and stretch them straight out from the sides. With your hands turned down and kept so, describe circles in a forward direction. Make twenty-five circles. Then reverse the direction and make twenty-five more in a backward direction.

After this little workout, turn your palms up and repeat the circling, again twenty-five forward and twenty-five backward.

Extra Benefits

A second exercise is performed as follows: Extend your arms straight out in front of you at shoulder level. Now, very slowly and with as much tension as you can command, especially in your elbows and hands, slowly grasp the thumb of each hand with the fingers of the other. Keep the tension high. Now, also with tension, open the hands very slowly and stretch

Keeping Up With Hollywood
by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — It was like Christmas all over again on the U-I lot when Piper Laurie returned from New York with 250 gifts for everybody from the bosses to the prop boys.

Midst packages and wrappings and everybody saying "thank you," Piper heard that her next movie will be "Dawn at Socorro," a Western in which she gets that prize package herself, Rory Calhoun, as her movie lover.

In her private life, romance seems to be running in another direction for Piper. While she was East, she saw a great deal of Charles Simonelli, young Universal-International executive to whom she was once engaged. She also saw David Schine, of the hotel clan, but only once. He's in the service of his country now.

With Uncle Sam knocking at his door to the tune of big taxes amounting to $200,000, and almost nothing in the bank, Mario Lanza really has to go back to work.

He hasn't had a drink for a long time. He's been reducing at Arrowhead Springs, and now he's considering an offer made by Jack Entratter to come to Las Vegas to the Sands Hotel in March.

Mario's old friend and one time manager, Sam Weiler, said that while he had not seen Lanza, he had talked to him on the telephone. He feels that if Mario's back is against the wall he'll really go to work and make use of what Weiler calls "the greatest talent in the entertainment field."

The last year has seen George Pal scare us out of our wits with such pictures as "War of the Worlds" and "Naked Jungle." Now George laughingly says he's going to turn over a new leaf by making a light action version of "Tom Thumb."

How well I remember the story of Tom Thumb and his wife, Minnie Warren, which my mother used to tell me about. They were mid-gets with Barnum and Bailey circus and were of tremendous interest all over the world.

For the role of Tom Thumb George has tested a 7-year-old boy, who, by a special process, shows up on the screen as only seven inches tall.

The health of Pilar Palette has not been good, so John Wayne has insisted that she go to the Scripps Clinic in La Jolla for a check up. He was to have taken her there yesterday but he had to fly to Dallas for a business conference with Bob O'Donnell. Now Pilar has decided to wait until John returns the first of the week when he will drive her to La Jolla.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random: The worm may have turned! Greta Peck was escorted to the Donald Nelsons' party by Stephen Arnstein. This is the first time Greta has gone out with any man since Greg chose to live in Europe.

There was a reconciliation between Alexis Smith, and Craig Stevens in London, and they'll tour Europe together.

'Boxcars' To Be Added To Indian Air Force

NEW DELHI, India, Jan. 8 (AP)—Official sources said that two American-made Fairchild C119 Flying Boxcars will be added to the Indian air force next month. Although the sources refused to say how many of the cargo aircraft were on order, a Fairchild spokesman in Hagerstown, Md., said earlier that the Indian contract called for 26.

Disclosure of the February consignment came after Sir Mohamed Zafrullah Khan, foreign minister of neighboring Pakistan, said in an interview in Karachi that his nation would have no objections to the United States giving military aid to India.

During the performance of both of the above exercises, you will note a tightening of the muscles in the chest, just below your arm pits and also in your neck. Be happy about this! Petersburg May Organize Council Of All Churches

PETERSBURG — A meeting of the Petersburg Ministerial Association and four lay representatives from each Petersburg church will be held at the Presbyterian Church Sunday, at 3 p. m. The purpose of this meeting is to study the possibilities of organizing a Council of Churches to plan all meetings of inter-denominational nature.

The Ministerial Association has been doing this work in the past but are of the opinion that more can be accomplished by an organization including lay members as well as ministers.

Petersburg already has an organization known as the Council of Church Women, with the National Council of Church Women but their work is that of planning local meetings in coordination with the National and Inter-national meetings, such as World Day of Prayer, May Fellowship, and such other meetings as are proposed by the National Council.

The group was elected and the company formed at a meeting of 35 interested citizens a few days ago.

Knights Win Game At Foul Line, 51-45

Waddell Scores 27 To Pace Victors In WMI League Opener

LONACONING, Jan. 8.—Valley High's Black Knights upended Fort Hill here tonight, 51-45, in their opening Western Maryland Intercollegiate League game, although outscored from the field by the Sentinels, 16-15.

Paced by husky pivot ace, Richard Waddell, the Knights converted 21 of 34 foul shots to gain the nod over Coach Cavanaugh's Cumberlanders who had 13 of 25 free throws. Waddell wound up with the game's high scorer with 27 markers on nine fielders and 9-11 foul tries.

Coach Johnny Meyers' Knights trailed only once in the opening moments of the game when Bob Brant, Fort Hill center, pumped in the first field goal to give the Sentinels a 2-0 lead. Waddell quickly retaliated with goal and foul to put Valley ahead 3-2 and they were never again headed.

Valley led 13-10 at the close of the first quarter and in the early minutes of the second stanza Fort Hill pulled within one point at 16-15 but the Meyersmen put on a spurt and left the court with a 24-17 lead at intermission.

The Knights continued to pull ahead as the second half got under way and led 28-18, their largest margin in the game, before Fort Hill began to whittle away.

Trailing 34-26 as the fourth quarter opened Fort Hill closed within five points at 49-45 but never got closer as Valley chalked up its fourth straight triumph and fifth victory in nine games. It was Fort Hill's second consecutive loss and third in eight contests.

The Sentinels were headed by Brant who tallied 18 points in a losing cause before fouling out with 1:31 to play in the last quarter. Earl Kyle of Valley also left via personals in the final stanza.

As You Were

He has become a red-hot football fan in more recent years and the No. 1 team in his book is Notre Dame, whom he saw in action several times during the 1953 season at South Bend.

A 200-pounder in his playing days and still in the heavyweight ranks, he is a native of Vale Summit, and lived in Midland before coming to Cumberland in 1910.

He handled the slants of the leading twirlers here and in nearby towns from 1916 through 1923 but will be remembered best as the brawny fellow who worked behind the plate in practically all of the games played by the championship Western Maryland Railway teams managed by Frank Birmingham. Among his teammates were Mike Diehl, Emmett Flynn, Nate Dreyer, Lefty Grove, Eldridge Cook, "Ditty" Stitzer, "Simmy" Ridgeley, Ed Welsh, "Lefty" Bell, Bruce Gillum, Bobby Blair, Walter Spiker, "Cappy" Haller, Chris Rowan and Allen Speir. Back in 1916 he was playing for Hyndman. He also played with B. & O. teams and once answered an SOS from Frank Spates and Lonnie Brown, Frothingham managers, to catch Irvin "Stub" Rase before the latter started on his minor league career. He was known as "Rough and Ready" and he'd fight at the drop of the hat.

What's his name?

His name was Walter J. Drummond, of 1805 Bedford Street, W. Va. He was re-baptized at the local Baltimore and Ohio Railroad shops. He was re-baptized as one of the most reliable catchers developed on the local level. He was re-baptized as one of the most reliable catchers developed on the local level. These easy, contouring and firming exercises quickly put upper-arm flabbiness to flight!

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

It's unnecessary for a woman to take to cover merely because of upper-arm flabbiness. True, it has been less of a hardship during this season than in the past because many of the loveliest evening fashions have not had the bare look. But you can be sure that when summer arrives, arms and shoulders will be out and smartly evident again.

Many women believe excessive plumpness of the arm from elbow to shoulder and it's natural accompaniment, flabbiness, are the inevitable result of age and therefore must be accepted as gracefully as possible — along with sleeves, shrugs, little jackets or scarves to hide the unwanted flesh.

To Firm Arms

But with a right good will, combined with a sufficient degree of persistence, firm contours can be reclaimed. The exercises that turn the trick are relatively easy and can be carried out either while standing or sitting.

Raise your arms to shoulder level and stretch them straight out from the sides. With your hands turned down and kept so, describe circles in a forward direction. Make twenty-five circles. Then reverse the direction and make twenty-five more in a backward direction.

After this little workout, turn your palms up and repeat the circling, again twenty-five forward and twenty-five backward.

Extra Benefits

A second exercise is performed as follows: Extend your arms straight out in front of you at shoulder level. Now, very slowly and with as much tension as you can command, especially in your elbows and hands, slowly grasp the thumb of each hand with the fingers of the other. Keep the tension high. Now, also with tension, open the hands very slowly and stretch

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD (INS) — It was like Christmas all over again on the U-I lot when Piper Laurie returned from New York with 250 gifts for everybody from the bosses to the prop boys.

Midst packages and wrappings and everybody saying "thank you," Piper heard that her next movie will be "Dawn at Socorro," a Western in which she gets that prize package herself, Rory Calhoun, as her movie lover.

In her private life, romance seems to be running in another direction for Piper. While she was East, she saw a great deal of Charles Simonelli, young Universal-International executive to whom she was once engaged. She also saw David Schine, of the hotel clan, but only once. He's in the service of his country now.

With Uncle Sam knocking at his door to the tune of big taxes amounting to $200,000, and almost nothing in the bank, Mario Lanza really has to go back to work.

He hasn't had a drink for a long time. He's been reducing at Arrowhead Springs, and now he's considering an offer made by Jack Entratter to come to Las Vegas to the Sands Hotel in March.

Mario's old friend and one time manager, Sam Weller, said that while he had not seen Lanza, he had talked to him on the telephone. He feels that if Mario's back is against the wall he'll really go to work and make use of what Weller calls "the greatest talent in the entertainment field."

The last year has seen George Pal scare us out of our wits with such pictures as "War of the Worlds" and "Naked Jungle." Now George laughingly says he's going to turn over a new leaf by making a light action version of "Tom Thumb."

How well I remember the story of Tom Thumb and his wife, Minnie Warren, which my mother used to tell me about. They were mid-gets with Barnum and Bailey circus and were of tremendous interest all over the world.

For the role of Tom Thumb George has tested a 7-year-old boy, who, by a special process, shows up on the screen as only seven inches tall.

The health of Pilar Palette has not been good, so John Wayne has insisted that she go to the Scripps Clinic in La Jolla for a check up. Now Pilar has decided to wait until John returns the first of the week when he will drive her to La Jolla.

Knights Win Game At Foul Line, 51-45

Waddell Scores 27 To Pace Victors In WMI League Opener

LONA CONING, Jan. 8.—Valley High's Black Knights upended Fort Hill here tonight, 51-45, in their opening Western Maryland Interscholastic League game, although outscored from the field by the Sentinels, 16-15.

Paced by husky pivot ace, Richard Waddell, the Knights converted 21 of 34 foul shots to gain the nod over Coach Cavanaugh's Cumberlanders who had 13 of 25 free throws. Waddell wound up as the game's high scorer with 27 markers on nine fielders and 9-11 foul tries.

Coach Johnny Meyers' Knights trailed only once in the opening moments of the game when Bob Brant, Fort Hill center, pumped in the first field goal to give the Sentinels a 2-0 lead. Waddell quickly retaliated with goal and foul to put Valley ahead 3-2 and they were never again headed.

Valley led 13-10 at the close of the first quarter and in the early minutes of the second stanza Fort Hill pulled within one point at 16-15 but the Meyersmen put on a spurt and left the court with a 24-17 lead at intermission.

The Knights continued to pull ahead as the second half got under way and led 28-18, their largest margin in the game, before Fort Hill began to whittle away.

Trailing 34-26 as the fourth quarter opened Fort Hill closed within five points at 49-45 but never got closer as Valley chalked up its fourth straight triumph and fifth victory in nine games. It was Fort Hill's second consecutive loss and third in eight contests.

The Sentinels were headed by Brant who tallied 18 points in a losing cause before fouling out with 1:31 to play in the last quarter. Earl Kyle of Valley also left via personals in the final stanza.

In the preliminary Fort Hill Jayvees won over the Valley Junior Varsity, 48-28. The lineups:

As You Were

He has become a red-hot football fan in more recent years and the No. 1 team in this book is Notre Dame, whom he saw in action several times during the 1953 season at South Bend.

A 200-pounder in his playing days and still in the heavyweight ranks, he is a native of Vale Summit, and lived in Midland before coming to Cumberland in 1910.

He handled the slants of the leading twirlers here and in nearby towns from 1916 through 1923 but will be remembered best as the brawny fellow who worked behind the plate in practically all of the games played by the championship Western Maryland Railway teams managed by Frank Birmingham.

Among his teammates were Mike Diehl, Emmett Flynn, Nate Dreyer, Lefty Grove, Eldridge Cook, "Ditty" Stitzer, "Simmy" Ridgeley, Ed Welsh, "Lefty" Bell, Walter Gillum, Bobby Blair, Walter Spiker, "Cappy" Haller, Chris Rowan and Allen Speier. Back in 1916 he was playing for Hyndman.

He also played with B. & O. teams and once answered an SOS from Frank Spates and Lonnie Brown, Frostburg managers, to catch Irvin "Stub" Rase before the latter started on his minor league career.

He was known as "Rough and Ready" and he'd fight at the drop of the hat.

What's his name?

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's. X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

coupe. Here's a masterpiece of engineering in the famous Chrysler
V-8, 180 h.p. motor that gives you very good gas mileage. This car has only been driven 20,000 miles and has never been titled. All mechanical parts are in A-1 condition. This car also has 4 new Nylon cord white sidewall safety tires. The gleaming 2-tone light grey finish does not have a mark. The beautiful Scotch plaid interior and upholstering was custom made for this car. Fully equipped with radio, heater, defroster, signal lights,
backup lights, under coating, air flow seats, power brakes, automatic transmission and all the small accessories. (We encourage trade-ins) This car will sell for just a small amount of the original cost.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE—Here's how to work it:

AXYDLBAAXR
is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Prices Subside During Quiet Market, Recover Near Close

NEW YORK, Jan. 8 (AP)—Prices subsided today in a quiet stock market, but there was a show of recovery just before the close. Losses as a general rule were cut off at around a point, although some stocks slipped as much as 2 points. Gains were usually small.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks lost 50 cents. Volume was the lowest since mid-November at 1,260,000 shares. That compares with 1,540,000 shares traded yesterday in a falling market.

Niagara Mohawk Power was the day's most active issue unchanged at 27 1/2 with 20,900 shares traded.

It was followed by Glenn Martin up 3/4 at 17 1/2, Virginia Carolina Chemical up 1/4 at 22 1/2, Hudson Motor up 1/4 at 12 1/2, and American Telephone off 1/4 at 156 1/2.

Among other losers were U. S. Steel, General Motors, Chrysler, Studebaker, United Aircraft, DuPont, Phillips Dodge, American Tobacco, Philip-Morris, Santa Fe, Baltimore & Ohio, and Westinghouse Electric.

Higher were Food Fair (up 3/4 at 33 1/2), the seventh most active issue, American Cyanamid, General Electric, Sinclair Oil, Texas Co., Cosden Petroleum, Loew's, and Rexall Drug.

Planning Group Proposes Flood Wall Substitute

Would Preserve 12 Properties

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday urged the Mayor and Council to consider the substitution of flood walls for levees along a 700-foot stretch of Water Street in order to preserve about a dozen properties doomed under present plans for the Cumberland-Ridgeley Flood Protection Project.

James Alfred Avirett, chairman, said the proposal calls for extending a concrete flood wall being planned from Beall Street to west of the Gas Company's property, some 700 feet to Kelly Boulevard.

Substituting walls for earth levees, he said, would save from 12 to 14 properties which will cost from $75,000 to $85,000 to acquire. The dwellings are assessed at $34,215.

Avirett pointed out that at one time, flood plans called for earth levees on all of the West Side, but that the Corps of Engineers decided to switch to concrete walls from the Moose Home to the Gas Company warehouse to save valuable property.

He said saving the homes and keeping them on the tax books, would justify the extra cost to the city.

Albert S. Paye, the engineering member of the board, said the proposal calls for an economic study, since the city would have to pay the extra costs.

What the change in plan would cost is not known here at present. The Corps of Engineers last November informed the city that switching to all walls on the West Side would boost the cost about $80,000.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the city has asked for a breakdown of the costs in order to determine just what the 700-foot section would add to the city's share of the work.

Study Traffic Routes
The commission will notify U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall of the proposal because any change in current plans must be approved by Congress.

Discussed were the extension of North George Street to the Viaduct, and the opening of Canal Street, major parts of the commission's proposal to alleviate the city's traffic problems.

The George Street project would cost some $188,000, according to current estimates which include $93,000 for construction and $95,000 for property acquisition.

Avirett said the route would give the city another northbound route to pick up traffic from the Industrial Boulevard and the Canal Parkway, and help alleviate congestion on North Centre Street.

Three traffic lanes could be provided on Centre Street above the Viaduct, Paye said, if parking were curtailed.

Study Bridge Plan
To begin its study of the opening of Canal Street, the board asked Anthony Salet, secretary, to secure plans from by C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, for the route.

This second link in the master plan, Avirett said, would give egress to the Canal Parkway and the Industrial Boulevard.

Mayor Eves informed the group that the State Roads Commission has promised to estimate the cost of the commission-sponsored Alternate Plan next week.

The group also studied the latest sketches forwarded by the SRC on its overhead expressway plan.

Area May Get Additional Snow

The Weather Bureau predicted a possibility of snow falling in the Tri-State area today followed by slowly rising temperature.

For Maryland and West Virginia areas the Bureau said today will be mostly cloudy and rather cold with rain likely at night, beginning as snow in the afternoon.

In Western Pennsylvania the forecast called for cloudy weather with snow likely. Rising temperature was predicted for all three states.

Mercury was generally above freezing in most sections last night, and roads, after an all-day cinderling and salting, were reported in good condition west of Cumberland.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said that chains are not needed for vehicles using highways west of Cumberland if drivers use caution.

The SRC had 16 trucks plowing, cinderling and salting roads west of here yesterday. Garrett County and other sections west still have from six to 10 inches of snow on the ground.

The Weather

A Weather Bureau forecast last night said more snow may fall today in the Cumberland area. The prediction was "mostly cloudy and rather cold today with rain likely at night, beginning as snow this afternoon." Temperatures ranged from a high of 39 degrees to a low of 26 yesterday, and at 7:30 p. m. mercury stood at 30. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 58 per cent.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Continues Its Expansion

New Research Lab To Be Constructed

Indicating it is continuing its expansion program, The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has announced that it will build a new glass research laboratory on a 45-acre tract in Harmar Township at Pittsburgh.

This laboratory is not the production plant for which a survey is now being made in Cumberland and other areas. The survey for a large production plant is continuing as scheduled and the company has not yet announced choice of a site. Cumberland is still considered a possibility by local observers.

The new research laboratory in Harmar Township will occupy a site of 45 acres on Guys Run Road bordering on Fox Chapel borough. According to Richard P. Tucker, executive vice president of Pittsburgh Plate, this new development is part of the company's expanding laboratory program. The new research plant will be devoted to basic and applied research.

The nationally known firm's glass program is being reorganized and expanded under the direction of Dr. S. Frank Cox, director of glass research.

In conjunction with Dr. Cox, Dr. James E. Archer has been appointed associate director of glass research and will head the basic and applied research program.

Plans for construction of the new lab have not reached the building stage. Meanwhile the research laboratory at Creighton, Pa., will continue to be used for the second part of the company's glass scheme, the development and product-control program.

Among other Pittsburgh Plate activities is the current construction of a paint research laboratory in Springdale, Pa., which will be partially staffed with scientists and technicians now working in the company's Milwaukee lab.

Salt Supply Ready For Future Snows

About 50 tons of rock salt is on hand to melt the next snow, according to Andrew Heller, street superintendent.

Salt spreading crews are dispatched to strategic spots in the city as soon as snow begins to lay here.

The city has been forced to switch to salt to keep streets open in light snows due to the shortage of cinders.

Two Cumberland Teenagers Held For Auto Theft

Two Boys Arrested By Md. State Police

Two teenage youths, one a parolee, were being held in Allegany County Jail last night in connection with the alleged theft of an auto from a North Mechanic Street used car lot.

One of the boys was taken to the County Jail Sunday, while the other youth, who was ill, was taken to a local hospital, and then to the lockup on Wednesday. A scheduled hearing in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday was postponed.

The two 18-year-old boys, Jerry Frantz and Charles W. Johnson, of this city, both have police records, authorities said. Frantz received a suspended one-year term to the Maryland House of Correction October 28 and was placed on probation for two years on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

At that time, Frantz was ordered to go to Dayton, Ohio, to be turned over to the custody of a cousin, Magistrate J. Milton Dick, who heard the case, added that Frantz was placed on probation because of his ill health.

Before that case, Frantz was given a suspended nine-month sentence to the House of Correction on September 14 after he had pleaded guilty to stealing another auto four days earlier.

At the hearing Frantz told Magistrate Dick that although he had a "bad record," he had never asked authorities for a second chance before.

Dick replied, "I am giving you that second chance, and I hope I am not making a mistake."

Frantz also has spent several years in federal and state penal institutions since he was 11 years of age.

Johnson and Frantz were arrested Sunday by State Police.

Candidates from Hagerstown, Frederick, Martinsburg and Piedmont are expected to take part in this degree. Following the degree work a dinner will be held on the ground floor of the K of C Home, Keegan added.

A deed recording the purchase by the Christners from Yost W. King and Nellie Grace King, his wife, was filed yesterday in the office of Joseph E. Boden, clerk of Allegany County Circuit Court.

The current DAR booklet, a 21st English edition, this year has an insert showing the way to vote for local, state and national officials. It also carries a complete list of positions of the Cabinet of the President of the United States. It does not carry the Cabinet position of Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, which was created by President Eisenhower.

The booklet includes sections on "The Growth of Freedom," "The Beginning of America," "The Declaration of Independence," an explanation and Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag, an understanding of the government of the U. S., including the Constitution, its preamble, and the Bill of Rights.

Also it carries articles titled "To the Applicant for American Citizenship," "The Responsibilities of Citizenship," "How to Become a Citizen of the United States," and the Naturalization Law. The manual also has 10 illustrations.

Little Accident Victim Has Belated Merry Christmas

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

It was a belated Christmas yesterday, but an extremely happy one for little Sally Myers, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Myers, 514 North Mechanic Street.

Sally was hit by an auto on North Mechanic Street, about 100 feet from her home on December 3, and spent Christmas day, along with many other days, in traction at Sacred Heart Hospital.

But yesterday, her parents, happy with the progress she is making, took her home to her own room, her own bed . . . and to Christmas.

Her parents, confident their only child would eventually recover from external, internal injuries and broken bones, went about their Christmas shopping and planning as normally as two young people could under the circumstances.

They arranged with Santa Claus to come to the house just as if Sally were at home. When Santa Claus arrived, they promised to keep the tree and the presents and everything just as Santa Claus had arranged them, until Sally could come home.

When Santa Claus discovered that Sally was in the hospital, he took time out from his carefully appointed rounds and also left some presents at the hospital for her.

So, unlike most little girls, Sally will see a film, "The Street," at the hospital, she recalls.

At the hospital, she recalls, Christmas was much like any other day there, except that she received over 150 Christmas cards and a "whole bunch" of presents from her Third Grade classmates at Centre Street School, and many other friends and well-wishers.

She proudly exhibited a set of twin dolls "Mr. Policeman" sent her. Sally's mother explained that one of the officers who patrols in the vicinity of the school took the dolls to her.

Sally also remembers very kindly, Raymond "Ike" Law, who regularly visits the sick, injured and ailing at local institutions. "Mr. Law brought me comic books and candy. I gave him some comic books for other kids too," she exclaimed. "He's awfully nice. He promised to teach me to swim if I am better by next summer. Daddy says he is the very best kind of a swimmer."

But it was really Christmas at Sally's house yesterday. The house had a genuine Yuletide atmosphere. The tree was still gaily trimmed and lighted. Presents, dolls, toy dishes, a gun, wind-up toys, a toy nurse's kit, a doll wardrobe, a toy kitchen, and many other presents were there.

Sally was impressed and excited. As her Daddy carried her into the house, she looked over the array, examined everything, gave each of a dozen dolls a very special hug, and then she was carried upstairs to her bed where she must remain for several weeks.

Sally is in a cast that completely covers her right leg and extends almost under her armpits. But she is quite gay about it.

"Want to see my autographs?" she inquired. "Go ahead, put your name on it too," she invited.

Cows Amass Best Record Of Production Since May

Cows registered in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association last month amassed their best production record since last May, which was 1953's best month.

The December averages include 623 pounds of milk, 25.6 pounds of butterfat and 4.11 per cent butterfat. In November the averages were 561 pounds of milk, 23.4 pounds of butterfat and 4.16 per cent butterfat.

Biggest December butterfat producer, according to Wheeler W. Arnold and Harry E. Miller, association supervisors, was Susie, a grade Holstein owned by Lloyd Nave, Bedford Valley, Pa. She gave 92 pounds of butterfat in 1840 lbs of milk, making her butterfat percentage stand at five per cent.

Second among the top 10 butterfat producers in the association was No. 27, a grade Holstein owned by Shumaker Brothers of Rawlings, who had 90 pounds of butterfat in 2140 pounds of milk.

The Shumaker Brothers had four other cows among the association's top 10 butterfat producers. Roxberry Real Delight, a registered Holstein, was third with 83 pounds of butterfat in 1970 pounds of milk. No. 52, a grade Holstein produced by artificial insemination, was tied for sixth place. No. 7, another grade Holstein, was tied for eighth and No. 41, also a grade Holstein, rated 10th with 72 pounds of butterfat.

Other dairy farmers with cows on the select list were R. E. Carskadon, Burlington, W. Va.; E. R. Streett and R. A. Oster, Bedford Valley, Pa.; Ernest A. Light, Pinto, and Carl Howsare, Bedford Valley, Pa.

Nine of the 10 select cows were Holsteins and the other was a Guernsey.

Unlawful Beer Sales Charged In Indictments

Three Are Placed On Open Docket

Three indictments charging unlawful beer sales were placed on the open docket in Allegany County Circuit Court yesterday.

In one Frank Raccosta and Rosie Swanger were charged with unlawfully selling and furnishing one bottle of beer to a 15-year-old local boy in the Queen City Tavern, 10 South Front Street, November 6.

Raccosta holds the Class D beer license for the place on the Queen City Pavement and the Swanger woman was working as a barmaid there.

The other indictments charge Sunday and after-hour sales of beer at the Cotton Club located at 111 Park Avenue in Frostburg.

In one of the bills Eleanor Jackson and Alice Spriggs are charged with selling three bottles of beer on Sunday, November 1, to Edward R. Willison, an inspector for the Allegany County Board of License Commissioners. The Jackson woman holds the Class D beer license for the club and the Spriggs woman was working as a barmaid there.

The women are Negroes but Willison said that about 12 white persons and eight Negroes were in the place about 1:10 a. m. Sunday, November 1, when he made his purchases.

The other indictment charges only the Jackson woman with unlawfully selling beer to Leroy J. Campbell and Mary Friend on Sunday, November 6. Authorities said that Campbell and Mrs. Friend were involved in a traffic accident on Bowery Street in Frostburg after leaving the Cotton Club. She was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment of her injuries.

The Jackson and Spriggs women are scheduled to appear in court Tuesday to answer the charges.

Court House attaches indicated that one more indictment charging a liquor law violation was returned by the Grand Jury.

Miners Hospital Bid Opening Due January 14

Bids on the proposed addition to Miners Hospital in Frostburg will be opened by the Maryland Department of Public Improvement at 3:30 p. m. Thursday, January 14, according to Nathan L. Smith of Baltimore, department director.

Completion of plans and specifications were delayed for some time by architectural and engineering difficulties. Drawings and figures underwent several revisions while problems were being ironed out. The board's final approval followed conferences with S. Russ Minter, local architect for the project, and Philip Hartig of Frostburg, engineer.

The board's approval clears the way for construction as soon as a narrow strip of land next to the site, needed primarily for access, has been acquired.

A dangerous loop in the existing road to the hospital will be removed and an access road will be laid to the rear of the new addition.

The addition, expected to cost in the neighborhood of $250,000, will be used primarily for maternity and juvenile patients.

Lancaster Heads LaVale 4-H Club

Jerry Lancaster was elected president of LaVale 4-H Club during a recent election. Other officers include Bernard Gross, vice president; Gary Fae, secretary, and David Rose, treasurer.

Following the election, Joseph M. Steger, assistant county agent, gave out schedules in order that the members could line up the program for the coming year.

Three new members were taken into the organization. They are David Stone, Jerry Debaugh and Phil Jones. David Rose built two motors in his electrical project.

Refreshments were served to the 14 members present by Mrs. Gerald Lancaster and the next meeting is scheduled for February 4 at the Lancaster home.

Planning Group Proposes Flood Wall Substitute

Would Preserve 12 Properties

The Municipal Planning and Zoning Commission yesterday urged the Mayor and Council to consider the substitution of flood walls for levees along a 700-foot stretch of Water Street in order to preserve about a dozen properties doomed under present plans for the Cumberland-Ridgely Flood Protection Project.

James Alfred Avirett, chairman, said the proposal calls for extending a concrete flood wall being planned from Beall Street to west of the Gas Company's property, some 700 feet to Kelly Boulevard. $34,215 Assessment

Substituting walls for earth levees, he said, would save from 12 to 14 properties which will cost from $75,000 to $85,000 to acquire. The dwellings are assessed at $34,215.

Asks Cost Study

Avirett pointed out that at one time, flood plans called for earth levees on all of the West Side, but that the Corps of Engineers decided to switch to concrete walls from the Moose Home to the Gas Company warehouse to save valuable property.

He said saving the homes and keeping them on the tax books, would justify the extra cost to the city.

Albert S. Paye, the engineering member of the board, said the proposal calls for an economic study, since the city would have to pay the extra costs.

What the change in plan would cost is not known here at present. The Corps of Engineers last November informed the city that switching to all walls on the West Side would boost the cost about $80,000.

Mayor Roy W. Eves said the city has asked for a breakdown of the costs in order to determine just what the 700-foot section would add to the city's share of the work.

Study Traffic Routes

The commission will notify U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall of the proposal because any change in current plans must be approved by Congress.

Discussed were the extension of North George Street to the Viaduct, and the opening of Canal Street, major parts of the commission's proposal to alleviate the city's traffic problems.

The George Street project would cost some $188,000, according to current estimates which include $93,000 for construction and $95,000 for property acquisition.

Avirett said the route would give the city another northbound route to pick up traffic from the Industrial Boulevard and the Canal Parkway, and help alleviate congestion on North Centre Street.

Three traffic lanes could be provided on Centre Street above the Viaduct, Paye said, if parking were curtailed.

Study Bridge Plan

To begin its study of the opening of Canal Street, the board asked Anthony Saeli, secretary, to secure plans from by C. R. Nuzum, city engineer, for the route.

This second link in the master plan, Avirett said, would give egress to the Canal Parkway and the Industrial Boulevard.

Mayor Eves informed the group that the State Roads Commission has promised to estimate the cost of the commission-sponsored Alternate Plan next week.

The group also studied the latest sketches forwarded by the SRC on its overhead expressway plan.

Area May Get Additional Snow

The Weather Bureau predicted a possibility of snow falling in the Tri-State area today followed by slowly rising temperature.

For Maryland and West Virginia, the Bureau said today will be mostly cloudy and rather cold with rain likely at night, beginning as snow in the afternoon.

In Western Pennsylvania the forecast called for cloudy weather with snow likely. Rising temperature was predicted for all three states.

Mercury was generally above freezing in most sections last night, and roads, after an all-day cinderling and salting, were reported in good condition west of Cumberland.

G. Bates Chaires, district engineer for the State Roads Commission, said that chains are not needed for vehicles using highways west of Cumberland if drivers use caution.

The SRC had 16 trucks plowing, cinderling and salting roads west of here yesterday. Garrett County and other sections west still have from six to 10 inches of snow on the ground.

The Weather

A Weather Bureau forecast last night said more snow may fall today in the Cumberland area. The prediction was "mostly cloudy and rather cold today with rain likely at night, beginning as snow this afternoon." Temperatures ranged from a high of 39 degrees to a low of 26 yesterday, and at 7:30 p. m., mercury stood at 30. Humidity at 6 p. m. was 58 per cent.

Pittsburgh Plate Glass Continues Its Expansion

New Research Lab To Be Constructed

Indicating it is continuing its expansion program, The Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company has announced that it will build a new glass research laboratory on a 45-acre tract in Harman Township at Pittsburgh.

This laboratory is not the production plant for which a survey is now being made in Cumberland and other areas. The survey for a large production plant is continuing as scheduled and the company has not yet announced choice of a site. Cumberland is still considered a possibility by local observers.

The new research laboratory in Harman Township will occupy a site of 45 acres on Guy's Run Road bordering on Fox Chapel borough.

According to Richard P. Tucker, executive vice president of Pittsburgh Plate, this new development is part of the company's expanding laboratory program. The new research plant will be devoted to basic and applied research.

The nationally known firm's glass program is being reorganized and expanded under the direction of Dr. S. Frank Cox, director of glass research.

In conjunction with Dr. Cox, Dr. James E. Archer has been appointed associate director of glass research and will head the basic and applied research program.

Plans for construction of the new lab have not reached the building stage. Meanwhile the research laboratory at Creighton, Pa., will continue to be used for the second part of the company's glass scheme, the development and product-control program.

Among other Pittsburgh Plate activities is the current construction of a paint research laboratory in Springdale, Pa., which will be partially staffed with scientists and technicians now working in the company's Milwaukee lab.

Two Cumberland Teenagers Held For Auto Theft

Two Boys Arrested By Md. State Police

Two teenage youths, one a parolee, were being held in Allegheny County Jail last night in connection with the alleged theft of an auto from a North Mechanic Street used car lot.

One of the boys was taken to the County Jail Sunday, while the other youth, who was ill, was taken to a local hospital, and then to the lockup on Wednesday. A scheduled hearing in Trial Magistrates Court yesterday was postponed.

The two 18-year-old boys, Jerry Frantz and Charles W. Johnson, of this city, both have police records, authorities said. Frantz received a suspended one-year term to the Maryland House of Correction October 28 and was placed on probation for two years on a charge of unauthorized use of a motor vehicle.

At that time, Frantz was ordered to go to Dayton, Ohio, to be turned over to the custody of a cousin, Magistrate J. Milton Dick, who heard the case, added that Frantz was placed on probation because of his ill health.

Before that case, Frantz was given a suspended nine-months sentence to the House of Correction on September 14 after he had pleaded guilty to stealing another auto four days earlier.

At the hearing Frantz told Magistrate Dick that although he had a "bad record," he had never asked authorities for a second chance before.

Dick replied, "I am giving you that second chance, and I hope I am not making a mistake."

Frantz also has spent several years in federal and state penal institutions since he was 11 years of age.

Johnson and Frantz were arrested Sunday by State Police.

Little Accident Victim Has Belated Merry Christmas

By F. ALLAN WEATHERHOLT

It was a belated Christmas yesterday, but an extremely happy one for little Sally Myers, eight-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Myers, 514 North Mechanic Street.

Sally was hit by an auto on North Mechanic Street, about 100 feet from her home on December 3, and spent Christmas day, along with many other days, in traction at Sacred Heart Hospital.

But yesterday, her parents, happy with the progress she is making, took her home to her own room, her own bed . . . and to Christmas.

Her parents, confident their only child would eventually recover from external, internal injuries and broken bones, went about their Christmas shopping and planning as normally as two young people could under the circumstances.

They arranged with Santa Claus to come to the house just as if Sally were at home. When Santa Claus arrived, they promised to keep the tree and the presents and everything just as Santa Claus had arranged them, until Sally could come home.

When Santa Claus discovered that Sally was in the hospital, he took time out from his carefully appointed rounds and also left some presents at the hospital for her.

So, unlike most little girls, Sally had two Christmases.

At the hospital, she recalls, Christmas was much like any other day there, except that she received over 150 Christmas cards and a "whole bunch" of presents from her Third Grade classmates at Centre Street School, and many other friends and well-wishers.

She proudly exhibited a set of two dolls "Mr. Policeman" sent her. Sally's mother explained that one of the officers who patrols in the vicinity of the school took the dolls to her.

Sally also remembers very kindly, Raymond "Ike" Law, who regularly visits the sick, injured and ailing at local institutions. "Mr. Law brought me comic books and candy. I gave him some comic books for other kids too," she exclaimed. "He's awfully nice. He promised to teach me to swim if I am better by next summer. Daddy says he is the very best kind of a swimmer."

But it was really Christmas at Sally's house yesterday. The house had a genuine Yuletide atmosphere. The tree was still gaily trimmed and lighted. Presents, dolls, toys, dishes, a gun, wind-up toys, a toy nurse's kit, a doll wardrobe, a toy kitchen, and many other presents were there.

Sally was impressed and excited. As her Daddy carried her into the house, she looked over the array, examined everything, gave each of a dozen dolls a very special hug, and then she was carried upstairs to her bed where she must remain for several weeks.

Sally is in a cast that completely covers her right leg and extends almost under her armpits. But she is quite gay about it.

"Want to see my autographs?" she inquired. "Go ahead, put your name on it too," she invited.

Cows Amass Best Record Of Production Since May

Cows registered in the Potomac Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association last month amassed their best production record since last May, which was 1953's best month.

The December averages include 623 pounds of milk, 25.6 pounds of butterfat and 4.11 per cent butterfat. In November the averages were 561 pounds of milk, 23.4 pounds of butterfat and 4.16 per cent butterfat.

Biggest December butterfat producer, according to Wheeler W. Arnold and Harry E. Miller, association supervisors, was Susie, a grade Holstein owned by Lloyd Nave, Bedford Valley, Pa. She gave 92 pounds of butterfat in 1840 pounds of milk, making her butterfat percentage stand at five per cent.

Second among the top 10 butterfat producers in the association was No. 27, a grade Holstein owned by Shumaker Brothers of Rawlings, who had 90 pounds of butterfat in 2140 pounds of milk.

The Shumaker Brothers had four other cows among the association's top 10 butterfat producers. Roxberry Real Delight, a registered Holstein, was third with 83 pounds of butterfat in 1970 pounds of milk. No. 52, a grade Holstein produced by artificial insemination, was tied for sixth place. No. 7, another grade Holstein, was tied for eighth and No. 41, also a grade Holstein, rated 10th with 72 pounds of butterfat.

Unlawful Beer Sales Charged In Indictments

Three Are Placed On Open Docket

Three indictments charging unlawful beer sales were placed on the open docket in Allegheny County Circuit Court yesterday.

In one Frank Raccosta and Rosie Swanger were charged with unlawfully selling and furnishing one bottle of beer to a 15-year-old local boy in the Queen City Tavern, 10 South Front Street, November 6.

Raccosta holds the Class D beer license for the place on the Queen City Pavement and the Swanger woman was working as a barmaid there.

The other indictments charge Sunday and after-hour sales of beer at the Cotton Club located at 111 Park Avenue in Frostburg.

In one of the bills Eleanor Jackson and Alice Spriggs are charged with selling three bottles of beer on Sunday, November 1, to Edward R. Willison, an inspector for the Allegheny County Board of License Commissioners. The Jackson woman holds the Class D beer license for the club and the Spriggs woman was working as a barmaid there.

The women are Negroes but Willison said that about 12 white persons and eight Negroes were in the place about 1:10 a. m. Sunday, November 1, when he made his purchases.

The other indictment charges only the Jackson woman with unlawfully selling beer to Leroy J. Campbell and Mary Friend between 12 midnight and 7 a. m. Friday, November 6. Authorities said that Campbell and Mrs. Friend were involved in a traffic accident on Bowery Street in Frostburg after leaving the Cotton Club. She was admitted to Sacred Heart Hospital for treatment of her injuries.

The Jackson and Spriggs women are scheduled to appear in court Tuesday to answer the charges.

Court House attaches indicated that one more indictment charging a liquor law violation was returned by the Grand Jury.

Miners Hospital Bid Opening Due January 14

Bids on the proposed addition to Miners Hospital in Frostburg will be opened by the Maryland Department of Public Improvement at 3:30 p. m. Thursday, January 14, according to Nathan L. Smith of Baltimore, department director.

Completion of plans and specifications were delayed for some time by architectural and engineering difficulties. Drawings and figures underwent several revisions while problems were being ironed out. The board's final approval followed conferences with S. Russ Minter, local architect for the project, and Philip Hartig of Frostburg, engineer.

The board's approval clears the way for construction as soon as a narrow strip of land next to the site, needed primarily for access, has been acquired.

A dangerous loop in the existing road to the hospital will be removed and an access road will be laid to the rear of the new addition.

The addition, expected to cost in the neighborhood of $250,000, will be used primarily for maternity and juvenile patients.
